WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today created a new command headed by a general to conduct an expanded U.S. effort to help South Viet Nam beat off the Communist threat.

A U.S. defence department spokesman said the move stresses that "we intend to win" the struggle.

The new command will direct the activities of U.S. aircraft and other units which have been flowing into South Viet Nam over the last few months.

The Pentagon spokesman stressed that "we are not in combat." He said U.S. efforts are limited to supporting and strengthening the pro-Western South Vietnamese with additional equipment, training and advice.

President Kennedy nominated Gen. Paul D. Harkins, now deputy army commander in the Pacific, to head the new command.

The new command will provide a framework for direction of any U.S. combat forces if a decision ultimately is made to use them in South Viet Nam.

Weepy Jayne Returns From 'Night at Sea'

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Movie actress Jayne Mansfield, who water-skied gaily out of Nassau Wednesday in a scanty swim suit, returned safely today, shivering and weeping with a story of a harrowing experience at sea and a night on a chilly beach.

She was taken to hospital for treatment of shock, exposure and coral rock cuts.

The actress, her weight-lifting husband, Mickey Hargitay, and a Florida public relations man friend were found safe this morning on a beach at Rose Island after a search touched off when they failed to return Wednesday night from the water-ski trip.

"Don't be upset, honey, sweetheart; it's all right," Hargitay said to Jayne as he led her to a car for the trip to the hospital.

"It was the sharks; that was the worst," said Jayne, who is reported to have an almost uncontrollable fear of sharks.

The Nassau Yacht Club said sharks have not been reported in those waters for many years.

Hargitay was taken to hospital for treatment of a cut leg. He was released after treatment.

Swathed In Blankets on Deck Chair

Miss Mansfield lay in deck chair swathed in blankets as the group returned to Nassau aboard the yacht that picked them off the beach of the isolated island after a plane spotted them.

Hargitay told the story of their experiences after they set off on the water-ski trip. Jayne and Mickey were on skis and Drury piloted the 17-foot, white-hulled outboard boat they had rented. They continued until they got about one and one-half miles from Rose Island, six miles from Nassau.

Acting deputy police commissioner W. V. Granger said his office would make a "routine investigation" of the accident.

"I imagine we will have to take their story at its face value," he said.

Jayne fell off her skis, he said. He tried to help and fell off himself. She complained of a hurt leg. They were not wearing life jackets.

Drury, in the boat, said he thought he saw sharks and called a warning. Jayne panicked Hargitay said.

The men said they brought the boat about and tried to get her into it. But in the struggle the boat overturned. Then Jayne fainted.

Drury and Hargitay got Jayne stop the overturned boat and her husband held her while they drifted perhaps an hour.

About dark they drifted onto a tiny coral island no more than 50 feet in diameter. The tide came in and water left just room enough for the three to sit. There they perched throughout the night.

In the morning, Hargitay said the tide dropped and they waded and swam "about two blocks" to Rose Island, a nine-mile-long, half-mile-wide isolated island, virtually uninhabited and without communications.

A searching plane later spotted them.

Jayne was taken to Rassin Hospital here and examined by Dr. Neyer Rassin, who said she was suffering from severe exposure and many mosquito and sand flea bites. He placed her under sedation and said he planned to keep her in hospital for several hours—possibly 24—to be sure of no chest infection.

Terrorists Nabbed

PARIS (UPI) — French police today arrested 10 suspected members of the terrorist Secret Army Organization (OAS) in a pre-dawn raid in Avignon.

Food for Starving

GEIHOKU-CHU, Japan (UPI) — An American Marine Corps helicopter made four landings in this snowbound Japanese village today, and unloaded two and one-half tons of food for its hungry citizens—the first delivery of food in 40 days.

Prison Farm Opened

MONTREAL (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton today officially opened the farm camp at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary here, the first of a series of prison farm camps planned across Canada.

NASSAU, Bahamas — Jayne Mansfield was brought back alive this morning, sobbing and bedraggled from her night out on a romantic Bahamian island just in time to meet noon editions of North American newspapers.

It was like a scene from a bad movie when Miss Mansfield, who had been listed "missing" for 18 hours, was handed off a rescue yacht in Nassau yacht basin by her solicitous husband Mickey Hargitay.

About 30 U.S. newsmen and photographers, who had hastened to the scene when the Hargitay boat was found upturned and adrift at midnight, jumped into the water and swam to the boat where Miss Mansfield was seated in a deck chair.

TOURISTS THREATENED

One newsreel photographer threatened to "knock tourists into the water" if they got between his camera and the famous movie couple.

Miss Mansfield was wrapped in a blanket and wore a blue cashmere sweater. She was without makeup. Her face appeared puffed and her platinum hair stringy.

However, she managed a wan smile and a wave for crowds clustered around the private car which drove her to a local clinic for examination. "A perfect capsize," one beach-boy commented.

Miss Mansfield is scheduled to announce a new movie contract before she leaves the islands.

NOT FOR PUBLIC

Mr. Williston said he would let Mr. Harding read the Crippen-Wright report, but he couldn't make it public. "I don't want that privilege and then have to remain silent," replied the NDP CCFer.

"We can't give it out because of its position in negotiating downstream benefits," said Mr. Williston.

Mr. Harding said the NDP CCF power policy was: All-public power under one authority; Development of the Columbia River—first, with Mica Creek dam the key, but elimination of the Arrow-Lakes dam;

No export of power except for surpluses on an interruptible basis.

PAYING BLOCKS HURLED AT PARIS GENDARMES

(See Page 7)

PARIS (AP) — Several hundred demonstrators and riot police clashed tonight just off the historic Place de la Bastille. An undetermined number was injured.

The crowd, which had gathered to protest recent plastic bombings in the capital, ripped up paving blocks from one street and hurled them at police.

The helmeted police, waving night-sticks, charged into the crowd and momentarily dispersed them.

The clash came after Communists and students called for separate mass rallies against the anti-de Gaulle Secret Army Organization in the face of a government ban on public demonstrations.

Change BCE Takeover Law — Macfarlane

By AB KENT

Premier Bennett was challenged Wednesday to rewrite legislation that enabled B.C. Electric expropriation without the right of appeal negotiation or arbitration.

In a speech in the legislature that dealt for nearly an hour on the takeover and the legal question of right, Oak Bay Liberal MLA Alan Macfarlane called for amendment to the act of last Aug. 1, providing for negotiation of the price put on B.C. Electric assets, and a court decision if no agreement is reached.

"If the government is not prepared to introduce such legislation, then the Liberals in the House serve notice now that they will do so themselves," Mr. Macfarlane said.

HECKLERS BUSY

He was subjected to considerable heckling from the government benches throughout his speech in which he cited many precedents for what he advocates, and read excerpts from national and international publications critical of the legislation.

Mr. Macfarlane, a lawyer, said "it is our responsibility to look at the thing and do something about it."

"You voted for it." Did you make a mistake? Social Credit members called.

CORRECTS ERROR

"I made this mistake—I put my trust in the premier to do the right thing and he has failed to do it," Mr. Macfarlane said.

"He demanded and got the trust of this House. He stands today in breach of trust because his government has been irresponsible in its action in this matter following the August session," the member said.

He noted at this point the premier's absence from the chamber.

"The real problem here is the damage which has been done to British Columbia's position throughout the investigation."

But Plans Go Ahead For Tests

(Times News Services)

President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Macmillan today proposed elevating the forthcoming disarmament conference in Geneva to the foreign minister level in a 'supreme effort' to halt the nuclear arms race.

The proposal was addressed to Soviet Premier Khrushchev. It also was announced by the British and U.S. governments that British-held Christmas Island in the central Pacific was being made available to the United States for nuclear testing.

Macmillan also told Parliament that the United States has agreed to provide suitable facilities in Nevada for the underground testing of one particular British nuclear device within the next few weeks.

A joint statement issued in Washington and in London said recent massive Soviet atmospheric tests "would justify the West" in resuming nuclear testing "for military reasons."

STRONG HINT

While this did not represent a final decision by the president to start atmospheric tests again, he strongly indicated at his news conference Wednesday that this will be his ultimate decision.

The announcement clearly reflected Anglo-American hopes for reviving the stalled nuclear test ban negotiations. The Eighteen-Nation Disarmament Committee is scheduled to begin meetings March 14 at Geneva.

The Anglo-American statement urged that Khrushchev join Kennedy and Macmillan in assuming "a direct and personal interest in these negotiations."

Diplomatic sources said in London that the U.S.-British proposal was made Wednesday in Moscow by U.S. Ambassador Edwin Thompson and British Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts. The suggestion was given to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at a 15-minute meeting in the Kremlin, the sources said.

They said Gromyko "took notice" of the proposal, but gave no immediate reply.

The Anglo-American proposal called for the March 14 meeting to "be initiated at the foreign minister level." It said the foreign ministers also should "be prepared to return as personal participants in the negotiations at appropriate stages as progress is made."

'DEEPLY CONCERNED'

The statement said the two governments, although preparing for a test resumption "in various places," also were "deeply concerned for the future of mankind if a halt cannot be called to the nuclear arms race."

"The two governments are, therefore, determined to make a new effort to move away from this sterile contest."

This was a reference to the continuing inability of Russia and the West to reach agreement on a nuclear test ban with what the West considers adequate inspection and control systems.

Kennedy at his news conference injected a new factor almost certain to be rejected by Russia. He said an inspection system would have to guard against secret preparations for testing in addition to detecting actual experiments.

THAILAND BOLSTERS LAOS BORDER

BANGKOK (AP) — Thailand's top officials said today they are considering sending troops in the next few days to Thailand's northern border with Laos.

Prime Minister Niall Sarit Thanarat and his vice-premier and defence minister, General Thanom Kittikachorn, told reporters the fall of Laos' northwest region to Communist forces seems imminent. Capture of the area would endanger Thailand's northernmost Nan Province.

U.K. Soccer Team May Play Here

Possibility of an English League soccer team playing in Victoria this summer was strongly hinted today by Dave Fryatt of the B.C. Soccer Commission.

The B.C. soccer body earlier announced that a game between Eintracht of Germany and England's Sheffield United has definitely been set for Vancouver early in June.

Fryatt said it also is hoped that B.C. all-star sides will play games with both clubs.

In that event, he said, one could be played in Victoria. "We'd certainly give it serious consideration if an application (by Victoria) was filed."

LONDON (AP) — Imperial Chemical Industries today made a new offer to Courtaulds, its giant textile rival, in a bid to pull off the biggest takeover in British industrial history.

Power Report Withheld By Socreds—Harding

By FRANK RUTTER Times Legislative Reporter

The Opposition's chief power spokesman Wednesday whipped both Liberal and Social Credit policies and charged the government was withholding information vital to the destiny of the province.

Randolph Harding (NDP, CCF Kaslo-Slocan) said the government has based its policy on engineering reports which nobody else had been allowed to see.

Main one is the Crippen-Wright report of 1958. "If you have information to change my stand on power I won't hesitate one second," said Mr. Harding.

"We in the Opposition need this information. We need it to clarify or modify our power policy. We're Canadians too. Just as determined to make any sacrifice in the best interests of those who have put this faith in us."

LIBERALS PLAYED

Mr. Harding in an hour-long speech to the legislature also:

• Played the Liberals for changing their power policy;

• Called it "A kangaroo policy with little Raymond (leader Ray Perrault) in the pouch peeping out to see where the Socreds are jumping";

• Said the present Social Credit two-river plan would push B.C.'s contingent liability debt to $3,000,000,000, by the end of the 1960s;

• Drew an admission from Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston that B.C. has no plans to export made-in-B.C. power at present.

NOT FOR PUBLIC

Mr. Williston said he would let Mr. Harding read the Crippen-Wright report, but he couldn't make it public. "I don't want that privilege and then have to remain silent," replied the NDP CCFer.

"We can't give it out because of its position in negotiating downstream benefits," said Mr. Williston.

New U.S. Weather Satellite Will Aid Glenn's Flight

River Ice Menaces Dam

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — A huge ice field descended on the Alton dam, ripping 23 barges from their moorings, after a 12-mile ice gorge broke up Wednesday on the Mississippi River.

U.S. Army engineers said the ice mass threatened downriver shipping and posed a possible danger to the dam. The 23 barges were adrift. Three towboats also were caught in the floating ice.

The new satellite took some cloud pictures from an altitude of more than 450 miles during its first trip around the earth.

These were described as "quite good."

Even better results were obtained the next circuit. Ground stations at Wallops Island, Va., and Princeton, N.J. Both reported "pictures of excellent quality."

Meanwhile weather-bureau scientists were geared to process the pictures and send information about the earth's cloud cover to weather forecasters throughout the world.

Dr. Morris Tepper of NASA said weather information from Tiro IV would be particularly useful to forecasters for those areas of the world below Glenn which are not well covered by other means. These are remote ocean stretches.

Tepper said the three recovery areas in the Atlantic where Glenn's space cabin will come down, depending on the number of orbits he makes, already are well covered by standard weather observation methods.

Tepper said it was "quite possible" that information from Tiro IV about remote areas would be of vital importance if something went wrong and the astronaut had to come down outside the three planned recovery zones.

Centennial Flashback...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

FEBRUARY 8

At 6:45 a.m. today, the trap was sprung from beneath the feet of condemned murderer "Charley," a Cowichan Indian found guilty of killing an RN stoker named Thomas Holmes. He was hung in front of the police barracks as about 300 interested spectators looked on. It was reported he was in good spirits until seconds before the fatal signal was given, at which time he appeared to be in a state of considerable trepidation.

"Charley's" official executioner was a convict, who receives a full pardon and $50 for his work.

Two sailors from the HBC ship Princess Royal were arrested last night, one for being drunk, the other for attacking the first officer.

The trim, speedy schooner, the Pretty Cynthia, was launched to engage in the coastwise trade.

Mine Blast Toll at 300

SAARBRUECKEN, Ger. (UPI)—Officials today abandoned hope for the miners remaining in the blasted tunnels of the Luisenthal coal mine and estimated the death toll at about 300.

Carl Hugo, director of the Saarland Mines Commission, said 279 men were killed in Wednesday's explosion and fire. About 20 others still were missing, and Hugo said "there are no longer any prospects that they can be rescued."

Hugo spoke at a news conference after another full day of work by wear rescue crews, who had been spurred on by reports of tapping a quarter-mile below the earth's surface.

But the rescuers returned to the surface again and again with bodies instead of survivors.

Hugo said about 100 men escaped without injury, and 81 were rescued injured. An estimated 480 men were in the mine.

He said authorities now believe a pocket of methane gas in the mine caused the blast. A spark from a miner's pick would have been enough to set it off, he said.

... POWER REPORT

Development of other rivers, such as the Peace, "as and when required."

The NDP-CCF had not deviated from this policy; but the Liberals and Social Crediters had, he said.

However, if the Crippen-Wright report vindicated this policy, if the government had other secret information to back it up, then it should be made known.

"This failure to supply information is serious... It could lead to a tragic blunder in the logical development of our power resources. In a democracy it is something we should not tolerate."

Mr. Harding said it would be a dereliction of duty if failure to supply information resulted in a hydro stalemate in B.C.

ARROGANCE SHOWN

"Withholding information is one of the characteristics of this government. It shows the arrogance of those who are now in control."

Mr. Harding criticized the government's present policy to complete reversal of its election campaign against public power, he said, on two major grounds.

First was based on the admission he got from Mr. Williams about future exports.

"Do you intend to export any power other than downstream benefits?" he asked.

"No—at this time it's no," was the reply.

Mr. Harding said that if B.C. didn't export by the time both Columbia and Peace Rivers were in production there would be 6,000,000 horsepower available three times the current energy requirement. What could be done with it? he asked.

The second major criticism was on debt.

LIABILITIES WAR

At the 1961 session the budget disclosed contingent liabilities totalling $601,000,000. And the B.C. Electric debt after last August's takeover, and the figure became $1,206,000,000. Add the Peace, and it was boosted as further $961,000,000. Add today at 1.05 a.m. after hitting a power pole at Government and Yates.

Margaret's Island Claimed by Indian

It's a good job the B.C. government wants Princess Margaret to return her island because it had no right to give it to her in the first place, B.C.'s Indian MLA said Wednesday.

When the princess was here in 1958 the government gave her Portland Island; now, according to press reports, it wants it back for park development.

"We do welcome royal visits," said Frank Calder (NDP, CCF Atlin) in the legislature.

"But... neither this government nor any government has paid the Indians for lands in this province, and this government had absolutely no legal right to be giving away lands—or islands—that it does not rightfully own in the first place."

He added: "I'm quite sure the native Indians living in the vicinity of the island will be delighted to see the island placed in a position where they can continue negotiations for price and compensation."

ment world," he said, asking that serious consideration should be given to statements published in the past five months.

EXPERTS QUOTED

He quoted from Barron's of Boston, the London Economist, the Financial Post, Toronto, the Montreal Star and Vancouver Stock Exchange monthly bulletin. He quoted part of a letter of protest to the premier from Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association.

The member said the London Sunday Telegraph, the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. and the B.C. Bond Dealers' Association complained.

But he said "the crowning indignity, the final blow in this whole mismanaged mixup, came when the attorney-general recommended to the lieutenant-governor that no fiat be granted to the British Columbia Power Corporation when it requested the right to have this matter determined in the courts."

JUDGES OWN CASE

"In other words the attorney-general presumed to act as the judge and jury in a case in which his government—his political party—was the accused."

He quoted judicial authority backing the claim that a fiat should be granted, unless a claim is, in the term of the court, "frivolous."

"If the reputation of British Columbia was a sickly grey following the events of August last," the member went on, "it became a sinister and oppressive black on the day the attorney-general barred the entrance to the halls of justice to subjects claiming only the right to be heard by a fair and impartial tribunal."

"I don't think the attorney-general would be prepared to stake his legal and political reputation on whether this claim was frivolous," he said.

"That wasn't the point," Attorney-General Robert Bonner called out.

"The principle is well known," Mr. Macfarlane replied.

"You are deliberately misinterpreting and misquoting," the attorney-general said.

CONSCIENCE INVOKED

The member said the attorney-general should "in all conscience" go to the courts and declare the claim frivolous.

"Don't be stupid," Mr. Bonner replied.

The procedure is available under rules of the court, the member said.

"If he fails to accept this challenge, then in all good conscience his name shall go down in legal and political history as one who in the words of Lord Justice Bowen 'has failed in his constitutional duty as attorney-general.'"

Burnside PTA will meet at the school on Monday at 8 p.m. Miss H. R. Slaghill from the Child Guidance Clinic will speak on "Warding Off Delinquency."

Woman Fined

Catherine E. Woolford, 148 Linden, was fined $250 and her licence was suspended when she pleaded guilty in city police court today to impaired driving.

Police said she was stopped today at 1.05 a.m. after hitting a power pole at Government and Yates.

'DRINK WAY THROUGH MILK GLUT IN CANADA'

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadians could easily drink their way through the milk glut in the interests of good nutrition, president Pierre Cote of the National Dairy Council said today.

Some products of the depressed industry have shown most heartening rises in consumption, he told the Alberta Dairymen's Association.

The same increase could apply to ease the record butter surplus—but only if the government slashed retail prices by at least 14 cents a pound to bring butter into closer price competition with margarine.

"The problem in its simplest terms was created as a result of unrealistic pricing policies by the federal government," said Mr. Cote. It therefore was government's responsibility—not the provinces or any one branch of the industry—to fix the situation so that consumption of butter rises back to its per capita peak of 18.4 pounds in 1957 compared with 15.5 pounds per capita last year.

MUSIC AND WORDS

Youthful Artists Create Rare Mood

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Like an unexpected mid-winter holiday or a sparkling cold drink at the end of a long hot day, Wednesday night's concert at Oak Bay Junior High School was a wonderful refresher.

Victoria Musical Art Society's February presentation was an all-French program featuring performances of Debussy's "Blessed Damsel" and Petite Suite for two pianos, and Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals."

Such charming music and poetry performed with so much vivacity and intensity by so gifted a group of artists from both the mature and student level, produced the sort of magic that the professional concert-goer experiences only once or twice a season—if he's lucky.

VIVID CONTRAST

The vividly contrasted program was based on the fine two-piano team of Margery Vaughan and Rita Wallis. Delicate color and mood was evoked by the duo in both Debussy numbers while character and brilliance were dominant in the Saint-Saens.

The mood and spirit of Rossini's poem, "The Blessed Damsel," beautifully read by Kenneth Bostock, was resolved and illuminated in its haunting musical setting.

Outstanding vocalists Margaret Abbott, soprano, and Marjorie Sturgeon, alto, with the subtly balanced and blended vocal ensemble, created a quite exquisite mood of spiritual reflection.

'CELLIST EXCELLS

All the fun and cartoon-like character of Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals" was vibrant, projected by the youthful instrumentalists and the accompanying piano team, while the pungent wit of Oden Nash's verses was highlighted by Mr. Bostock's readings.

Each instrument had its solo and characteristic passages and these were handled with

BERLIN SKIRMISHES

Guards Stand 'Toe to Toe'

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police reported a big Communist troop movement in East Germany today on the western outskirts of the city.

The police said they saw 80 to 100 army vehicles in a convoy moving from the neighborhood of the Glienicke Bridge, on the western tip of the U.S. sector, along the main road to Potsdam. The convoy included 40 armored personnel carriers with infantry aboard and 40 vehicles towing guns, Western police said.

At another part of the border, guards from West Berlin and East Germany faced each other almost toe to toe with loaded weapons Wednesday night but finally executed a mutually withdrawal without bloodshed.

A spokesman for the West Berlin police gave this account:

LIBERALS ASK 'FACTS' ON POWER SITUATION

Vagueness was the hallmark of Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston's analysis of Peace River power development, Oak Bay Liberal MLA Alan Macfarlane charged in the Legislature Wednesday.

"It's about time we got down to facts and dealt with it on a factual basis rather than on a partisan, political basis," the member said.

"We seek to assess the whole situation in an unbiased manner. We want clear, concise and candid views expressed on the matter. This should not be a political football—this is vital to the welfare of British Columbia."

Mr. Macfarlane complimented Mr. Williston for his description of the Columbia River project and thought he would be the first to admit that his handling of the Peace project "was barren by comparison."

GREEDY FOR FINES

Natives' Liquor Rights Pressed

A new plea for full liquor rights for B.C. Indians was issued in the legislature Monday by Frank Calder (NDP).

DOCUMENTS KEPT SECRET

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Wednesday denied a request by Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) for tabling in the Commons of documents dealing with proposals for extension of Canada's territorial limits beyond the present three miles.

External Affairs Minister Green said the matter was being "actively pursued" and his disclosure of the documents might prejudice Canada's case.

Sentence Lenient Says Magistrate In Store Robbery

An 18-year-old youth was sent to prison for six months by Magistrate William Ostler Wednesday for robbing the City Hall News Stand, Jan. 23.

The sentence is far more lenient than this type of offence deserves, the magistrate told Lloyd Keith de Wolfe, 1018 Balmoral.

The youth admitted using a pop-bottle to hold up operator Ben Hall, 235 Cook, and rob the till at the stand. He was charged with robbery with violence.

The magistrate told de Wolfe he was impressed by the plea made on his behalf by defence lawyer W. Berkley Monteth but he did not think probation was the right course.

Mr. Ostler urged de Wolfe to break away from his former associations and mode of living.

'PAUSE FOR PEACE' BY U.S. CITY

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—A 53-minute "pause for peace" was conducted in Iowa City Wednesday.

The peace pause started on schedule at 10 a.m. with observances held in churches, at coffee shops and in University of Iowa classrooms and auditoriums.

A telegram signed by an estimated 1,200 persons is to be sent to President Kennedy informing him of this community's demonstration in favor of peace.

GOVERNMENT'S refusal to make public the details of its wheat sale agreement with Communist China has become "highly suspicious," Liberal Senator W. Ross Macdonald said Wednesday.

DIEF'S BARB ON PENSIONS

'Six-Buck Boys' Term Condemned by CCFer

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker was urged Wednesday to lay off calling the Liberals "the six-buck boys."

Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) said in the Commons that the country's old age pensioners are not likely to be impressed by the term.

It is often used by Mr. Diefenbaker and his followers to deride the Liberals for boasting the old age pension by only $6 prior to the 1957 election.

which brought the Liberal government's overthrow.

Mr. Howard said a government cannot argue it is meeting its obligations to pensioners better with a $10 or $25 pension increase than with a $6 one, if the size of the increase is finally determined by the state of the public treasury and whether an election is coming.

It had been the history of social security pensions that increases were offered by the government in power just before election time.

Transportation Survey Under Way for Islands

B.C. Toll Authority officials are making surveys to see how transportation services in the Gulf Islands can be improved, according to Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi.

He said a proposal that Galiano Island have a direct link to the mainland is under consideration, but that no promises can be made.

Recent ferry developments in the islands include the toll authority's picking up its option on property at Long Harbor, Salt Spring Island, which is suitable for a ferry landing. Problem affecting the area is that of 90 commuters who live in the islands, work in Vancouver, and want a ferry which will serve Galiano, Mayne, Saturna and Pender Islands.

They decided this week to ask the government for such a service as a temporary summer measure, with the hope of it becoming permanent. They seek a link with Tsawwassen rather than with the old Coast Ferries Steveston terminal.

MLA Attacks on Citizens 'Last Resort' Says Socred

The Opposition finds itself without legitimate criticism and is "wielding the tar brush over responsible citizens," the Social Credit member for Prince Rupert told the Legislature Wednesday.

William Murray said Opposition speakers in reply to the Speech from the Throne had found nothing in government policy they could criticize legitimately and so attacked "responsible citizens of this province."

He referred to a charge last week that oil magnate Frank McMahon had profited by $11,250,000 in a preferential pipeline deal, which the government denies.

tion painted a ridiculous picture of the ferry system turning away a child with 10 cents clasped tightly in his hand, unable to pay the new price of 15 cents for a glass of milk.

"When you scrape the bottom of the barrel for this type of criticism, then you're really in trouble," the government back-bencher said.

Mr. Murray criticized the four-man Liberal bloc for not having a definite policy on power development.

Last Attempt Made to Save Play Program

A "do or die" meeting of the Oak Bay Playground Association has been called for Feb. 28 at 8 p.m. in the municipal hall in a last-ditch attempt to launch a summer program for children of from 12 to 15 years.

The association had notified 350 parents of children in this age group of the annual meeting, scheduled for Wednesday night, and 10 people turned up—five of them members of the executive.

FOR TEENAGERS

The present playground program takes care of children of from five to 12 years, but executive members claim upward expansion, for the teenagers who are still too young to work, depends on parents' support. If the Feb. 28 meeting fails, then plans for the program will be dropped.

Officers elected Wednesday were Kenneth Shore, president; Mrs. K. C. Murphy, vice-president; Mrs. M. M. Hicks, secretary; and Mrs. W. E. Oliver, treasurer. Past-president is Ralph Sparks.

Backdrop to the Budget

ON FRIDAY MR. BENNETT will present his budget, setting out how much money he proposes to spend and how he will raise it. According to the Canadian Tax Foundation, the forecast is for the highest per capita revenue of any province in the country. By the same forecast, the per capita expenditure will be still higher and the per capita tax collection about the highest in Canada.

To be seen in proper perspective, Mr. Bennett's budget must be viewed against the somber background of public debt in British Columbia—a background from which the myth of a "debt-free" province has been stripped. The myth was never convincing. Today it is completely destroyed by the reality of cold figures.

While Mr. Bennett has been playing the charade of debt elimination, the public of British Columbia has been shouldering a growing burden which has now reached more than a billion and a quarter dollars.

Four provincial agencies account for most of it, roughly as follows: B.C. Electric Co. Ltd., $604 million.

B.C. Power Commission, $220 million.

PGE (for which a vast amount of debt was written off years ago), $119 million.

B.C. Toll Highway and Ferry authority, $95 million.

In addition, the last mentioned has received a government loan of $6.7 million to buy the Black Ball ferry system.

The obligations of these agencies, owned by and accountable to the government which guarantees their bonds, amount to about $1.05 billion.

Beyond this, other contingent liabilities, including school board, municipal and improvement district bonds guaranteed by the government, runs to an additional $235.5 million.

Combined, the total indebtedness is over $1.28 billion—or something more than $770 for every man, woman and child in British Columbia.

Of course British Columbia has received good value for much of this debt. Highways are vastly improved. Better services have been furnished. But the debt has to be paid. So has the interest on it.

To be sure, the interest is not paid in the form of taxes, not as a direct charge on the treasury. It is paid indirectly through such channels as bridge tolls, electric light bills, freight rates on the PGE, fares on the ferries, municipal taxes to cover school debts guaranteed by the government.

But however the money is raised for interest and debt repayment, it can come only from the people of British Columbia.

What the average interest rate may be on this vast debt is probably known only by government accountants. Under prevailing conditions on the money market, it can scarcely be less than 5 per cent on recent borrowings at least.

But take the more conservative figure of 4 per cent and apply it to a debt of $1.28 billion. That comes to interest costs of $51.2 million—something over $30 for every living person in the province or more than $120 for a family of four.

One way or another that interest and the debt payments have to be met by the people of British Columbia.

Repeating the Parks Story

THE OUTDOOR RECREATION Resources Review Commission authorized by the United States Congress in 1958 has completed a three-year study and released findings with a familiar tone.

Briefly, the report says that more people, with more leisure, are going to require more elbow room for healthy play and that it is up to the authorities to reserve land for that purpose.

This is the type of thinking shared by the British Columbia Parks and Recreation Department—and before it by the parks branch of the Forest Service. Over a long period of time and under different administrations, British Columbia has set aside substantial areas for public recreation. Many of them are not very accessible at this time, but they will become increasingly important as the province is more densely settled.

The American commission in its report has emphasized another necessity in the parks field. It underscores the desirability of acquiring for public use suitable property reasonably close to urban centres. Here the philosophy of parks planning coincides almost completely with the attitude of the Capital Region Planning Board which outlined a program for marine parks around Saanich Peninsula.

In 1958, the planners indicated seven areas suitable for marine parks. By June of last year only three of the areas originally listed were unchanged. Some had been subdivided and in the others private interests had purchased some of the property, if not all of it.

In three years, the desirable park potential had been cut in half.

It is possible, of course, to repurchase such land for parks purposes, but the cost, after someone has made improvements, becomes prohibitive.

What action the various states will take on the U.S. commission's findings remains to be seen. The report at least outlines the needs—and incidentally supports the parks philosophy of British Columbia.

And strengthening the demand for outdoor recreation facilities is the commission's belief that: "The physical vigor of a nation is as much a part of its strength as good education."

Mr. Diogenes Had a Lamp

THE WORLD IS FAMILIAR enough with the story of the ancient who, carrying his lantern, looked for an honest man.

Mr. Robert Kennedy is correct, more of us might turn the lantern on ourselves.

"If you had a completely honest public," the United States attorney general said the other day, "more than 90 per cent of all this organized crime would disappear, dry up within a short time."

Mr. Kennedy elaborated his statement. Small dishonesties, he pointed out, lead to larger corruptions, though the perpetrator of the small dishonesty may never make it a large one. Rackets thrive on the returns from relatively minor illegal acts—a bet in a horse-parlor or a payment on a numbers game helps to finance big-time crime and vice.

Where does the ordinary citizen stand on crime? He's against it. He's honest. Yet how many citizens who consider themselves honest will countenance little dishonesties?

How many feel any compunction about having a parking ticket "chilled"? How many people would be affronted if the special concession they received in some deal were called a bribe?

"One of the problems," says Mr. Kennedy, "when you come down to the individual, is that he is against organized crime. But if there is an approach made and he can make a good deal more in his business by alliances with a racketeering labor union, then we find too frequently those alliances are made."

Where does it all start? Mr. Diogenes perhaps wondered. Where will it all end? Probably at the point where every man turns his own lantern on himself.

For the Man With a Screw Loose

NOW COMES A REPORT THAT the Russians have outclassed the man who sold refrigerators to the Eskimos. The Soviets have sold two snowplows to equatorial Guinea. This is salesmanship.

For some reason or other the report expresses surprise that Russia has also sold to the nation of less than three million people a million screwdrivers and 35,000 bathroom fixtures. Houses there, it points out, are usually held together with mud and seldom have running water.

So what? Isn't the average citizen of Guinea entitled to think like the average citizen anywhere—that his neighbor has a screw loose now and then? And hasn't the ascendancy of North American culture been tied, in some quarters, to the development of chromium plumbing?

FROM WASHINGTON

The Club With Only Two Members

By JOSEPH ALSOP

THERE is more than simple public relations (though there is a lot of that, too) in the increasing public relations contacts between the White House and the Kremlin. If you add up these contacts, the sum is already rather impressive.

At Vienna, Nikita S. Khrushchev and President Kennedy somberly threatened one another with war over Berlin. But in the backroom, Kremlin

Pro Karmlov and White House Pro Pierre Salinger were meanwhile discussing such seemingly contradictory projects as simultaneous news releases, appearances of their bosses in the neighborhood theatres of Minsk and Oshkosh.

This was followed by the Salinger-arranged interview of the President by Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexei Abuzhel, who also happens, by no accident at all, to be editor of the Soviet Union's second newspaper, Izvestia.

This was followed, in turn, by the informal Soviet suggestion that Attorney General Robert Kennedy might well end his world tour in Moscow, which was transmitted through the White House press office.

Long Lunch

Though Robert Kennedy did not go to Moscow, Abuzhel came back to Washington for a long lunch with President Kennedy at which Khrushchev's son-in-law got a friendly but firm Presidential lecture about the extreme gravity of the mistake the Kremlin would commit by underestimating the American will to stand fast at Berlin and in South-east Asia.

Concurrently, the Salinger-Kharlov contacts have been renewed. Salinger is going to Moscow later on, in what is not very convincingly billed as a strictly private capacity. And it would surprise no one if the kind of project that was mentioned at Vienna began to be discussed again pretty soon.

The first thing to note about this new-style diplomacy is that the State Department is not being left out of the game. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and his attendant demonologists have been consulted at every stage. State Department advice has been followed even when negative.

Same Instinct

Attorney General Kennedy, being a Kennedy, hankered to accept the Kremlin's indirectly proffered invitation, just to find out what the devil it was all about. His Presidential brother, being another Kennedy, had the same instinct as the Attorney General.

But the State Department argued that even a junior Kennedy visit to Moscow would arouse expectations of all sorts of high-level exchanges, when there was nothing to exchange as far as U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson could discover. For this reason, the visit was decided against.

Another thing to note about these novel White House-Kremlin exchanges is that they are quite differently viewed in Washington and Moscow, and among the allies of the two giant powers.

Moscow must like them, since the initiative has been Moscow's for more than half the time. By the same token, the President obviously regards them as interesting, looking in that, and having some promise of profit; and his State Department advisers concur.

In contrast, what China thinks, if Communist China can still be regarded as a major Soviet ally, most certainly does not bear repeating in polite society.

As for the reactions of the leading Western allies, they might better be described in the classic phrase, as "not angry, only a little sick at heart." The French are very close indeed to being angry.

This is because the President and Khrushchev are quite plainly flirting with, and even edging towards, a joint appearance on the world stage as the White King and the Red King, or the Emperor of the West and the Emperor of the East, or what you will.

The prospect of this kind of brotherly act by the leaders of the two giant powers has never aroused much enthusiasm among the giants' partners.

Precisely because they are unique—because they belong to a club which has only two members—the leaders of the giant powers always itch to hold a reunion.

Bitterly Disappointed

President Eisenhower, for instance, had no great hopes for the four-power summit meeting that broke up over the U-2 incident; but he was bitterly disappointed to be cheated of his subsequent planned trip to the Soviet Union. What Khrushchev thought may be gauged from the fact that the only existing golf course in Russia was specially built in anticipation of the Eisenhower visit which did not come off.

No face-to-face reunion of the two member giants' club is in prospect now. No such reunion is even likely, at least until much more progress is made on the bitter Berlin problem.

Yet the last thing to note about this novel political phenomenon is that it is an encouraging phenomenon, even after the public relations aspects are carefully subtracted.

The Kremlin and the White House would not be exchanging signals in this manner if the temperature of the cold war were still at the post-Vienna deep freezing point.

As Our Readers See It

Bring in Women

Why are women not represented on the Centennial Committee? They sure can do a good job, as proven by the Mothers' March.

Also the Cowichan Agricultural Society was organized and run by two women, the first time in Canada. Another woman interested in North and South Saanich Agricultural Society has raised nearly $300 for prizes as well as three perpetual trophies all over $15 in value.

Surely women can come up with some bright ideas if only contracted. A. E. CUNNINGHAM, 661 McKenzie Avenue.

Against Amalgamation

There may be advantages to be secured by amalgamation of the four municipalities but I honestly cannot see them, although I have followed as best I could the arguments pro and con across Canada.

I was in favor of the amalgamation of the four School Boards. As a School Trustee for four years in Saanich immediately preceding the amalgamation of the four School Boards and as a member of the new amalgamated board for the following six years, I had an opportunity to see both sides of the picture. Many people like to think of a tidy package of government instead of several small governments, but the fact is the cost of the new amalgamated school board immediately rose above the total cost of the several boards.

Also I am quite sure the schools did not thereafter receive the same minute attention by the school trustees as they had formerly. The council or board simply could not cover the ground of four councils or four boards.

In my opinion it would be a great loss to Greater Victoria if the four separate councils manned by good public spirited citizens were to vanish. Lest I give the wrong impression I say I have the highest admiration for the staff and employees of the Greater Victoria School Board. From personal knowledge I know of their devotion to their work. I would regret indeed any effort by the province to force amalgamation on Greater Victoria. Once done, it could never be undone. M. P. PAINE, 3620 Quadra Street.

'Can't Take It with Them'

Victoria probably has as large a percentage of wealthy retired people as any city in Canada. No doubt most of these good people, knowing that they "can't take it with them," have plans to leave their estate to relatives, charity or worthy causes.

It should be pointed out that, in the event of the thermo-nuclear war, not only they but their estates, their heirs, their charities and their worthy causes may all be destroyed.

The only preventative to this calamity is peace. May I suggest that an endowment to the Peace Research Institute at this time would probably be the best insurance they could buy to preserve the future of the things they hold dear.

For information phone GR 7-3600. HARLAND W. CLARK, 3366 Cook Street.

World Youth Festival

As one who has attended a World Youth Festival, I must point out that the remarks made by Walter McLean in the Times last week are not entirely correct.

Mr. McLean states that "people are often deliberately misled into believing that this movement is truly international." The festival which I attended in 1955 had 30,000 participants from 14 countries, including youth from all walks of life and representing almost every known religion and political opinion. If Mr. McLean knows of any gathering which is more all-embracing, I am certain many people would be interested in hearing about it.

Mr. McLean claims that those who attend the World Youth Festival in Finland this summer are in no way officially representative of Canadian students in general. From my experience with those who have attended, I believe they did so out of a sincere desire to learn more about other countries and to live in friendship with the youth of the whole world.

This is more representative of the thinking of Canadian youth than is Mr. McLean's approach which would only lead to further disunity. The president of a worthy organization like NFCS could apply his energies more to furthering international understanding rather than attaching labels to the efforts of those who do so. M. ORNIAR, 2660 Capital Heights.

Grateful

I would like to express my sincere thanks to the police and all who helped my wife when she fell outside the Bank of Montreal at noon on Friday, January 26; also to the doctor, nurses and staff at St. Joseph's Hospital for their kind attention. C. STANLEY DUNSTAN, 490 Vancouver St.

"PAINT A NEW FACE ON ME, TOO, WILL YA?"

LONDON:

Fascination Of Murder

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

THE British reading public is now preoccupied with one of those cases which, every year or so, bounds into the headlines and stays there until its squalid end. The electorate understands the ins and outs of this intricate affair far better than it does the Common Market or the suggestion of a working alliance between the Liberal and Labor parties. But then, the case is one of murder.

The case is a sufficiently horrible one. The evidence for the prosecution is that a man and a girl drove out one evening to plan the course of a motor rally round the lanes of the English countryside. While parked, they were approached by an armed man who forced them to drive on and on until he stopped them on a hill on the trunk road which is numbered A-6.

Here, on what was called Deadman's Hill, in Bedfordshire, he shot the man dead, raped the girl and, before driving away in the car, shot again and again at the girl and left her for dead by the side of the road.

Giving Evidence

She is now paralyzed from the waist down, but alive and out of danger and giving evidence. The case is now known everywhere as the A-6 murder. A man called James Hanratty has been arrested and is being tried for the murder.

The case is being reported at enormous length and with an exquisite care. The care is used in part because crime reporting is, perhaps, the most highly developed aspect of British journalism. Care is also used because of the menacing fact of the law, alive and breathing, down even the meanest reporter's neck.

The question of whether Hanratty is innocent or guilty is left most severely alone. The only facts mentioned about the case and the accused are those brought forward in evidence during the trial. There are no pictures of the accused; no biographical details. As far as the public is concerned, he is a shadow with an Irish name.

But around the shadow, a fantastic story is emerging. The police made enormous efforts to solve this crime and something like 33 wildly assorted witnesses are expected to give evidence before the trial is over.

Each day brings a new drama. Ladies who say they knew Hanratty faint heavily in the witness box. A number of witnesses appear to have long criminal records at a comparatively early age. It looks, at times, as if a lid is being taken off a nasty, grey, sleazy underworld, a place of moderate violence and of half-hearted vice. It is all a moon away from ordinary people and their experience.

Other World

It is a world that includes the gossip of prisons and the memory of incidents in the cells of London gaols. It is a world in which men give way to their instincts as easily as animals do and get neither pleasure nor profit out of it.

It is this strange world that Hanratty is alleged to have inhabited for part of his life. It requires a conscious act of will not to be interested in this picture of the dark side of England that is being built up.

But it is not the horror alone that makes this murder one so fascinating to the British. It has long been accepted in the civilized world that the British boast best murders in the world. This proud conception is, of course, a fanciful one.

It means, in fact, that when desperation, lust, boredom or, most rarely of all, greed, causes a man to slash through the rules and kill in Britain his act and all its attendant details are reported and commented upon as differently civilized people do their music or their politics.

I do not know any country in the world where a case like the "A-6 Murder" could attract such attention. Of course, the British court room with its rigid decorum and restrained ritual, with its demanding intellectual standards and its fastidious language, makes the perfect setting for horror.

When, during this case, the spectators laughed at what a witness said, the judge leant forward and said, "I think those people who desire amusement ought to seek it somewhere else."

Low Rate

But it goes further than that. The British are more interested in murder than other people. Comparatively, their murder rate is low. It has scarcely increased in the present general increase in the crime rate. The British pride themselves on caring passionately about the fate of the individual and on having erected a majestic system of law to cope with this passion.

This preoccupation with murder could be an expression of this passion for justice. It could be a vicarious enjoyment of violence that the order of British life forbids to all but determined delinquents.

It could be that this is the one time when, respectably, the British can publicly enjoy something that is fundamentally dirty. Perhaps the word enjoy is wrong. But that they—that we—are fascinated, there is no doubt whatsoever. (London Observer Service)

REPORTING

OTTAWA — There's probably no cause for our exporters to panic with fear that the Cubans won't have dollars to buy Canadian goods merely because President Kennedy has put a total embargo on trade with Castroland to cut off Cuban earnings of U.S. dollars.

Moreover, although I have misgivings about our trade with Cuba I don't think it should be ended by a U.S. move to dollar-starve our customers. That would only cause resentment in Canada—as if the U.S., having failed to persuade Canada to "boycott" Fidel Castro, were imposing its will upon us by indirect means.

But even if Cuba has depleted its large dollar holdings of a year ago, when the Cubans talked of buying $150-million worth of Canadian goods for cash, there is little doubt that Havana can get dollars from overseas customers. And Canadian businessmen operating within Canadian policy and law wouldn't be adverse to payment in Russian gold or British sterling or German marks or any medium of exchange convertible into dollars.

Far more important to Canada than the sale of $25 millions to $30 millions worth of Canadian exports a year is the danger of being isolated in Cuba's company in this hemisphere.

This underlines the doubt whether our sovereign right to trade with whom we wish is being exercised in our best long-term interests. We have been asked by the U.S. to reconsider our position. We have apparently refused.

We are being asked by the OAS, if not formally then at least by precept, to join the rest of the hemisphere in imposing economic sanctions against a regime that Prime Minister Diefenbaker declared last April 19 was a "dictatorship," a "new danger which affects the hemisphere," and "a threat to the peace... (which) affects us here in Canada."

Those forthright words were spoken, to be sure, when the PM expected the invasion would succeed and Castro would be toppled. Next day he sang a softer tune, about "normal relations," when the invasion's failure was indicated.

Without pronouncing on the PM's performance last April, the fact is that we have a choice now between continuing our trade with Cuba, or joining the rest of the Americas to curb this "dictatorship," this "new danger," this "threat to the peace." Which will it be?

In the last 10 days the government has reacted twice to official U.S. criticism of our trade with Cuba. When White House brain trust Arthur M. Schlesinger implied that our trade "threatens the prospects of democratic success in Latin America," Foreign Minister Green ticked him off with "unusual" and "improper."

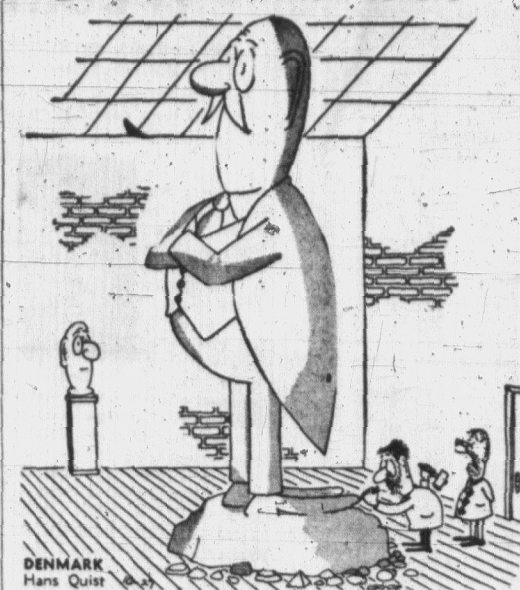

When Secretary of State Dean Rusk rather pointedly said that Cuba is using dollars earned in trade to promote Communist subversion in Latin America, Diefenbaker refuted the implication that Castro is getting Canadian dollars. But he ended his statement on a curiously mild note that may indicate a weakening of the government's attitude.

"While naturally Canada is most desirous of co-operating at all times with friendly nations," he said, "the decision as to the course Canada shall take should be made by Canada on the basis of policies which we believe are appropriate to Canada."

A lot of leeway in that sentence.

Protests Greet Philip; Leftists Harass Kennedy

OSAKA (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy took his meet-the-people campaign to the Japanese countryside today, waving and smiling in good humor: both at the thousands who cheered him and the hundreds mustered by the Communists to jeer him.

The U.S. attorney-general's enthusiasm was undampened by several leftist demonstrations that dogged his trail as he criss-crossed the countryside from Kyoto to Osaka before boarding a plane for Tokyo.

He ran into one group of 300 shouting Communists outside a textile mill in Kyoto. Waving banners and shouting "Kennedy go home," the demonstrators surged toward the Kennedy bus, but police moved in and pushed them back.

The attorney-general got off the bus and waved to the demonstrators. Infuriated, they closed ranks across the street and kept up their chants as Kennedy and his wife, Ethel, and U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer and his Japanese-born wife spent an hour touring the mill.

On leaving, Kennedy again smiled and waved as the bus pulled away. At this, the demonstrators sang the Communist Internationale.

Flu Sweeps Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — An influenza epidemic sweeping Tokyo has closed 905 classes at 400 schools, about 20 per cent of the Tokyo area, health officials said Wednesday. Officials described the epidemic as a milder version of the Asian flu which took 683 lives in Tokyo in 1956. There have been no reports of fatalities.

Commonwealth Meet To Be Asked by Dief

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada's Macmillan promise that a Commonwealth conference would be held if the member nations wanted it.

Canada has maintained from the outset of Britain's Common Market negotiations that a conference should be held before any final decision is made.

He added, however, that he was certain the British government as well as other Commonwealth members was aware that this country wanted such a conference.

Diefenbaker made the statement in the Commons when asked by Opposition Leader Pearson to comment on British Prime Minister Harold

Are Members Mice or Men? 'Not Mice,' Speaker Rules

Members of the Legislature may not refer to one another as blind mice, Speaker Hugh Shantz ruled Wednesday.

As a result Alan Macfarlane, Liberal from Oak Bay, withdrew the allegation made during Throne speech debate on Wednesday.

He had earlier referred to the three Victoria Social MLAs as three blind mice.

When the second member, Waldo Skillings, persisted in heckling Mr. Macfarlane during the latter's speech, he used the name again and Mr. Skillings demanded withdrawal.

SPEAKER CRACKS DOWN

"I don't think any member has the right to call another member a blind mouse," Mr. Shantz said.

"On taking another look, he doesn't look like a blind mouse," Mr. Macfarlane said as more heckling voices interrupted.

"I withdraw because he's obviously not a mouse," the member said.

"Pretty poor sport," Highways Minister P. A. Gallagher hurled across the floor.

Mr. Macfarlane blew up.

"We had an example of poor sportsmanship when you made the most vicious attack on a member of this House that I have ever heard," the member cried, gesticulating at the minister.

EXCHANGE OF SHOUTS

"You attacked the member for Vancouver East (Alex MacDonald, NDP-CCF) on his professional ability and integrity," Mr. Macfarlane shouted in reference to Mr. Gallagher's statement that the Vancouver lawyer had profited by the public voice shaking.

"I know you don't like lawyers. You spend more time in court than a lot of lawyers I know," Mr. Macfarlane said.

He because his education was assisted and he now makes $10,000 a year."

"I wasn't going to say that until you opened your mouth," Mr. Macfarlane went on, his voice shaking.

"It's about time you began to do some of the things in this House that you preach outside the House."

"I know you don't like lawyers. You spend more time in court than a lot of lawyers I know," Mr. Macfarlane said.

The Fiddle and the Elephant

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Honorable Eugene Siler is a puzzled man. He can't figure out how in the world our missile marksmen managed to miss anything as big as the moon.

As he pointed out in the congressional record, the moon is more than 2,000 miles in diameter and "usually is shining like a new dollar most any time when you might want to shoot at it."

To miss it by more than 20,000 miles seemed to him deplorable.

Siler, it should be explained, is a member of Congress representing the eighth district of Kentucky. He has among his constituents some of the best sharpshooters in the Cumberland mountains.

The men, he said, "can drop a squirrel out of a tree at 100 yards," and he knows a girl who can "hit a running rabbit with a rifle at a hunter's reasonable distance."

"What would they think if I told them that some experts down in Florida fired a big shot at the big moon way out yonder and actually missed it by more than 20,000 miles distance from the bull's-eye target?" he asked.

West

Answering his own question, he said they would regard the recent moon shot as comparable to "missing an elephant's south end while swinging at it with a big bass fiddle."

For that matter, Siler was unable to understand why anyone would want to shoot at the moon in the first place.

"The moon is beautiful and romantic," he said, "it is friendly and inspiring. It is helpful and generous. It gives light and affects the tides. It promotes courtship and saves electricity."

"And if you should actually hit the moon as a target, what would you accomplish?"

"Well, sir, it seems to me that hitting the moon with a rocket would accomplish at least as much as swatting an elephant with a bass fiddle. And Siler neglected to mention that the moon is more than 200,000 miles from the earth."

The size-to-distance ratio in the moon shot was about 1 to 100. Under this ratio, and assuming that an elephant measures five feet, the fiddler would be required to stand 500 feet away.

Considered in that light, the moon shot was perhaps not as far off target as it seemed to Siler. The fiddler would have to come within 50 feet of the elephant to equal it.

Coastal Mineral Laws Introduced

B.C. bolstered its claim to control of off-shore mineral rights Wednesday with introduction of legislation covering permits to develop them.

The move follows a dispute between the provincial and federal governments over jurisdiction of off-shore rights.

'MADNESS' TO RESIST SHIP PIRATES

LISBON (Reuters) — Capt. Simoes Maia Wednesday accused the men who seized the Santa Maria of shooting in cold blood the third officer of the Portuguese luxury liner.

The accusation was made on the opening day of a trial in absentia of 33 men blamed for seizing the Santa Maria in the Caribbean a year ago.

The third officer was the only man killed in the takeover.

Maia said there was no fighting because "the crew had no arms and it would have been madness to have resisted."

Ottawa maintains that B.C. controls leases only to high water levels; B.C. has replied that it has complete off-shore control because it did not surrender this right when it joined confederation.

FEES SCHEDULED

The new legislation amending the Petroleum and Natural Gas Act, brought into the legislature by Mines Minister Kenneth, Kiernan establishes a schedule of fees and conditions for granting off-shore exploration permits, licences and leases.

Off-shore areas are defined as being 75 per cent covered by water.

The legislation set up a new type of permit, to be known as Class D, for working on off-shore areas.

(Class A, B and C permits are for land mineral rights.)

The off-shore permits will be cheaper: fees will be 2½ cents per acre for the first three years, compared with 5 cents for A, B and C permits; after the eighth year of permit, fees will be 7½ cents compared with 30 cents an acre.

'We're Not Concerned' Says Green

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Green said Wednesday the Canadian government "is not concerned" with a statement on the Columbia River by Teno Roncallo, chairman of the United States section of the International Joint Commission.

Mr. Roncallo was quoted in Seattle, Wash., Tuesday as saying that Canada must ratify the Columbia River treaty within three or four months or the U.S. will have to make other plans.

"We are not concerned with what this particular gentleman said," Mr. Green said in a Commons reply to H. W. Herdridge (CCF—Kootenay West).

Mr. Green said Mr. Roncallo is not a spokesman for the U.S. government in the matter. The International Joint Commission was not the responsible authority at this stage of Columbia River negotiations.

Seeks Independence

GEORGETOWN (Reuters) — Premier Cheddi Jagan said Tuesday he will press at a British Guiana independence conference in London in May for full independence of the British colony by next October.

Students Gunned Down In Algerian Violence

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Algerians students went on strike today in protest against the killing of three European youths in the continuing wave of racial violence in this troubled North African territory.

The three students were killed in the last 48 hours by Moslem gunmen. Two of them were among the 18 persons—12 Moslems and six Europeans—slain Wednesday.

They were shot down in front of the Lycée Bugeaud School on the edge of the Moslem Casbah.

Newspaper workers throughout Algeria were called out on strike today to protest against an expulsion order against Tony Arboua, an Algerian sports writer and head of the Algiers television sports department.

European gunmen, believed to be secret army members, made off with between 120,000 and 130,000 francs ($24,000 to $26,000) in a daring holdup at a bank in the heart of Algiers today.

It was the fourth holdup in Algeria this week blamed on the secret army, which is reported to be replenishing its funds in this way. The other three robberies netted a total of $22,800.

Meanwhile, French civil servants, who work at the administrative centre of Rocher Noir, about 30 miles from here, voted Wednesday night to continue their strike to back demands for an armored train to take them to and from work.

However, French officials ended the strike this morning by issuing orders threatening civil servants with fines or imprisonment if they continued their refusal to report to work.

As the civil servants returned to their jobs, secret army gunmen today "executed" a worker for the Algiers Water Company. He was dragged from the company's bus by three masked men and taken away in a car. His body was found later, riddled by some 20 rifle bullets.

Policeman Arrested

SEATTLE (AP)—A Seattle policeman was arrested Tuesday after merchandise stolen from a hardware store was found in his home.

Hosts' Role Costly When Bruins Visit

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

It was the young reporter's first official day at the racetrack. He wanted desperately for his story to be good. To be so good he would get the racing beat permanently. He circulated through the crowd, seeking the few contacts he had. By fate or coincidence he saw none.

Anxious and somewhat worried he thought of the jockey's room. This is a hallowed location. Track owners, horsemen, administrative personnel cannot get in. Respected and reliable writers are allowed but only with the sanction of the stewards.

Such a visit affords a writer an insight into the inner workings of man and beast, much as a neurosurgeon opening a patient's skull makes discoveries no X-ray can provide.

The young man went up to Earle Lewis, an associate steward, and asked if he might enter the jockey's quarters. Lewis looked the questioner over carefully, made a snap judgment. "Alright," he said. "I'll phone the custodian and tell him..." Then he stopped. "Come on," he said. "I'll take you in myself."

He set off a fast pace. The young man almost had to run to keep up.

Cold? Just Ask Some of the Valets

Lewis could have taken him to the custodian and then left. Stewards have few minutes to spare on neophyte writers. Instead he took the young man from locker to locker, introduced him to each rider for whom he had a nickname or a brief, amusing anecdote.

When the process was finished and Lewis turned to go, the slightly stunned young man expressed thanks. "That's all right," said Lewis. "If you're going to do this job, you might as well get started properly."

That night after the reporter turned in his story and had been told it was acceptable, his editor turned and said: "Quite a place, the track. I think you'll like it. Even if the stewards seem cold and crusty."

The editor's remarks and the incident came tumbling through the memory this week when word came that Earle Andrew Lewis, 69, had died in Burnaby General Hospital.

Cold and crusty? Society tends to stamp a man by hearsay evidence or outward appearance. Earle Lewis worked at his stewardship with an intense dedication. He never broadcast his accomplishments from trainer for his father's stable through the mutuels department and finally joining racing's official family atop the grandstand. Perhaps his reticence was in some way responsible for the "cold" tag they hung on him.

But cold inside? Ask some of the valets, the men oftentimes too old and too heavy to ride, who butler for the jocks. More than once Lewis came across a valet too deep in the grape—a ripe duck for the unemployment rolls. More than once this "cold" man, aware of the valet's wife and children, sent him home for the day. The next afternoon Lewis would wear the offender's hide but the innocent family would go on eating.

Saying 'Sir' Never Hurt Anybody

Crusty? Earle Lewis was no philosopher. But his philosophy of conduct was painfully simple: since racing is a sport, it is a business. By self-example he sought to create respect, not so much for himself but for racing. He was intolerant of flippancy, arrogance, bad speech, shoddy appearance. The respect for authority he demanded makes other sports officials frequently look bush. You said "sir" when you spoke to him.

They came from all walks of racing to his funeral Tuesday. "It was so jammed," said Bill Lochead, president of the horsemen's association, "that many stood outside."

Each of them may have had a story about Earle. But to none more than Lochead was the loss more sincerely felt. Turn the clock back to 1954.

Among Lochead's flock was a useful sprinter, Sir Achna. In his early years a good gate horse, "he would walk in and stand like a gentleman," Sir Achna gradually turned fractious at the barrier.

Lochead saw red one day when the gate crew used a chain on his horse. Sir Achna broke badly, ran poorly and came back with big welts on his hide.

Lochead protested to Lewis. The next day Clay Puett, the starter, told Lochead he wanted to see him in Lewis' office.

Sizzling, Puett said that he had heard Lochead protested the manner in which Sir Achna had been loaded into the gate.

"That's right," said Lochead. "I didn't chain your horse," Puett said. "You were there, you saw it," replied Lochead.

Integrity Has Its Own Rewards

Unprintable words were flung, followed by fists. Lochead dumped Puett not once but twice. Restraining hands halted the affray.

An investigation was called. At that time Lochead was not exactly the most popular horseman with track operators (perhaps because of misunderstandings).

Lochead heard that Lewis had been told point-blank: "Rule him off or resign." Lewis had waited a long time to get his post. But ruling Lochead off meant that the horseman could not race anywhere.

Lochead went to Lewis. "Earle," he told him. "I know the spot you're in. I don't want to be kicked out of racing. But this means more to you than it does to me."

Lewis replied: "Don't ask me for any favours. I don't hand them out for anybody. I'll call it as I see it."

The hearing was brief. Lewis stood up and said: "Mr. Puett, you were wrong. Mr. Lochead, you shouldn't have struck an official. I fine you $250. The money will be turned over to the Crippled Children's Hospital."

Within 24 hours Lewis had a phone call from Jack Diamond of B.C. Turf and Country Club. "Earle," he said. "We want you to join us. How long? You have a job for life."

That's the kind of fellow racing lost this week. Good-bye, Earle. We'll miss you.

REPS LEAN ON MOORE

Ancient Arch Has Nothing on Buzz

Maybe there's something in the name of Moore. At least boxing has its Archie and Vancouver rugby has its Buzz.

Archie Moore, the Methuenschel of the back-busting business, has the edge in athletic longevity. He admits to various ages, but sounds most honest when he says 46.

Buzz Moore, the ancient one of the oval-ball pastime on the mainland, isn't quite so old.

Moore and the Repls will be Archie's League. But he's close enough to rate some admiration. And he doesn't play games with dates, admitting cheerfully to 43 winters before you can say scum half.

Just remaining active in rugby isn't enough for Buzz. He wants to play with the best in his town, which means earning a place with Vancouver's representative side. Keeping in condition by running about eight miles per day, Buzz has done just that and is playing with the Repls for impromptu games.

Moore and the Repls will be Archie's League. But he's close enough to rate some admiration. And he doesn't play games with dates, admitting cheerfully to 43 winters before you can say scum half.

By Canadian Press

The lowly Boston Bruins could cost Toronto Maple Leafs several thousand dollars in National Hockey League bonus money this season.

Johnny Bower, the Leafs veteran goaltender, says the Bruins already have just about ruined his chances for the Vezina Trophy—and the $1,000 that goes with it.

Then the Bruins threw a roadblock in Toronto's bid to overhaul Montreal Canadiens for the league championship Wednesday night by holding the Leafs to a 2-2 tie at Toronto.

The single point left the Leafs five points behind Canadiens and they only have 19 games left to Montreal's 26. The difference between a first and second-place finish is $750 for each player—those on the first-place team getting $1,500 and those on the second $750.

HAWKS ON MOVE

And the Leafs haven't got second place sewed up. They're nine points ahead of third-place Chicago Black Hawks, but the Hawks are rising fast after a slow start.

New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings, waging a big battle for the fourth and last possible playoff berth, also fought to a 2-2 tie Wednesday night.

The Rangers hold fourth spot at the moment, by one point.

Bruins, winners of only 12 of 52 games, have done better on Toronto ice than any other team this season. In six outings, they have two wins and a tie. Furthermore, they've managed to pump 23 goals behind Bower.

Against all other opposition at Maple Leaf Gardens, the Leafs have 16 wins and three ties.

Toronto's Ron Stewart got the tying goal at 12:47 of the last period Wednesday.

The other three goals came in the second period. Defenceman Leo Boivin and winger Andre Pronovost tallied for the Bruins and defenceman Tim Horton got one for the Leafs.

Goalie Bruce Gamble stopped 40 shots for the Bruins. Bower, falling 15 goals behind Montreal's Jacques Plante in the race for the Vezina—awarded to the goalie who plays the most games for the team that allows the fewest goals—had 28 saves.

BATHGATE'S 20th

At New York, the Rangers' Andy Bathgate got the tying marker at 19:24 of the second period. It was his 20th of the season, giving him six consecutive 20-goal seasons.

The goal permitted Bathgate to open a four-point lead over Detroit's Gordie Howe in the race for the scoring title. He has 61 points while Howe, held pointless, has 50.

Dean Prentice scored New York's other goal, his 15th of the season. For the Red Wings, the marksmen were Alex Delvecchio and Norm Ullman.

Marcel Paille, filling in for the injured Lorne Gump Worsley in the New York nets, had 24 stops. Hank Bassen, subbing for the slumping Terry Sawchuk, had 31 saves for the Red Wings.

Back Door Opened For Six Quartets

PENTICTON (CP)—Seven zone champions and six outside rinks meet here today in the opening draws of double-elimination competition leading to the provincial curling final.

The competition will decide the British Columbia Curling Association championship, and who will meet Howie Christopher of Vancouver in the best-of-three provincial playoff. Christopher will represent the rival Pacific Coast Association at the playoff Feb. 13 at North Vancouver.

Rinks having qualified for the knockout play by winning zone championships are Lloyd Harper, Quenell; Buzz McGibney, Rossland; Eric Bisgrove, Kimberley; Nick March, Kamloops; Bill Carse, Penticton; Gus Levins, Kitimat; and Herb Taylor, Whitehorse.

VANCOUVER SELECTS ALEX MACKAY COACH

VANCOUVER (CP)—Boxing and soccer star Alex Mackay was appointed Wednesday night as coach of the Inter-City Lacrosse league's Vancouver entry.

Mackay, 33, was chosen by club officials to succeed Bob Marsh who coached Vancouver to the Mann Cup championship last season.

Chiefs Must Stop Slicker Winslade

The dead-eye guy of the mainland's Inter-City Basketball League is taking aim at Victoria's Haida Chiefs.

Polished Ken Winslade, all everything for UBC in collegiate cage circles for two seasons before tossing his sneakers in with New Westminster Bakers this winter, is coming to town Saturday.

Winslade and pals are due to tackle Victoria's senior "A" squad in an exhibition clash at Central Junior High School.

Ken-eye Ken has impressive credentials. Owner of an almost unstoppable jump shot, he was the inter-city circuit's most productive guard. He was third in the league scoring race, but didn't make a habit of rapid-fire basket-bombing. He topped the league in sniping accuracy, hitting 51 per cent of his field-goal attempts. Appreciation of his ability was shown in balloting by players, coaches, referees and press for league all-star berths. Winslade topped all rivals by collecting 69 of a possible 70 votes.

Bakers also placed forward Mike Potkonjak on the first all-stars and had three men named to the second all-star club.

Also due to see action with Westminster is former Victoria Haida star Ed Pedersen.

Playing their last exhibition game before tangling with Alberni Athletics in Island playoffs, Chiefs will operate without coach Elmer Curtis, confined to hospital by a slipped disc in his back. Calling the Haida shots will be Ken King.

Chiefs and Bakers start dribbling at 8:30. Opening the two-game program at 7 will be a juvenile boys' playoff game between Chinese Students and Oak Bay.

Eligibility Rules Touch Off Furor In Junior Series

The battle for Vancouver Island Junior A hockey supremacy shifted from the ice to the committee room today.

The back-room blowup occurred Wednesday after Esquimalt Bruins thumped Victoria Cougars 8-3 at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Victoria manager Jack Morgan protested the game on the grounds that Esquimalt used six players who lack Canadian Amateur Hockey Association cards.

If he gets no satisfaction from Ivan Temple, president of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, Morgan says he will go to the CAHA.

Morgan's protest to Temple may stand or fall on an agreement made by representatives of the three junior teams.

Temple says they agreed prior to the series aimed at yielding a Vancouver Island championship team to play it out even if the players didn't have their cards.

They further agreed, says Temple, that any club using an ineligible player would forfeit any victories.

For some inexplicable reason, none of the players on any team received their cards from registrar Jimmy Anderson of Trail before the round-robin series began.

Temple says that Morgan maintains that Hector McNeill, Victoria's representative at the meeting is no longer team manager. Temple claims that Morgan voiced oral disapproval of the agreement after the meeting but "he has never put it in writing."

PROOF MISSING? Said Morgan of six Esquimalt players he cited: "They haven't even got proof of their age and we're playing against half of the Esquimalt Commercial League."

Morgan's rebuttal is that any manager who knowingly uses ineligible players leaves himself open to suspension. It is possible, he said, that some of the players haven't received cards because they were late in filing birth certificates.

As for the game, Esquimalt romped to an early 4-0 lead, saw Cougars whittle it in half, and then poured on the goal for four unanswered goals to wrap it up.

The teams are scheduled to play again Monday at Memorial Arena.

Five Rinks Take Aim At Bonspiel Jewelry

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Three Victoria rinks, one from Vancouver and another from Duncan were first in line today as rinks in the Pacific Coast Curling Association bonspiel started reaching for the jewelry today.

All were eligible for a pair of prizes but by tonight two of their number will be allowed to reach for only one.

Unbeaten after three days of play were rinks skipped by Glen Harper of Duncan, Bud Ford of Vancouver, and Ken Sturrock, Norm Richardson and Bob McIntosh, all of Victoria.

Sturrock, curling with Laurie Perleto, Ralph Schmidt and Bill Young, leads the field in the race for the grand aggregate with a 6-0, won-lost record. The other unbeaten rinks were 5-0 going into today's play.

TOP QUARTERS CLASH

The ranks of the undefeated will be cut by two. Meeting in what shapes up as the big games of the day were four of the unbeaten rinks. Richardson, another member of the Regina clan that won two straight Canadian championships, was due to meet McIntosh while Ford was to face Harper.

Both games were in the main event. Winners move into the semifinals.

Sharing quarterfinal berths in the first main event with the unbeaten rinks were Jack Moir of Esquimalt, Don McRae of Nanaimo and George Hobson of Victoria.

Only 12 rinks reached the 16s of the second main event after Wednesday's abbreviated play.

IN 16S

In the 16s of the second event were Keith Gregory, Chilliwack; J. Hamilton, Comox; Frank Hickey, Port Alberni; Harper, and the Victoria rinks commanded by Gord Moore, Larry Marshall, Sturrock, McIntosh, Gar Taylor, Roger Pick, Don Matheson and Ron Booher.

Quarterfinals were also completed in the main secondary event, while play in the other events was into the 16s or 32s.

At Mather of New Westminster, Arden Brown and Ernie Montgomery of Vancouver and the local entries skipped by Gerry Walls, Dr. Kirby Moysie, Lawrence Houghton, Gord Robertson and Fred Jarbeau filled the eighth of the main secondary competition.

Play today opened with the special seniors' bonspiel taking up the ice in the morning draw. The Veterans, all of whom must have reached their 60th birthdays by Thursday, will play in three events. Thirty-nine rinks are entered:

TEEN-AGE CANADA

Girls Still Want Their Courtesies

By JACK HUTTON

Trust women of all ages to stick together against the opposite sex. This is an old rule—but teen-agers in Montreal and Vancouver have just proven it all over again.

I've just heard of two debates, one in Montreal and one on the west coast, in which the same question was explored: are men as polite as ever?

The fellows, in both cities, pleased that they still open doors for the weaker sex and almost never precede the girl friend through a door.

But the determined young ladies in both cases stuck to their party line. Said one 17-year-old Montreal miss: "Maybe this just reflects the growing independence of women, but the old courtesies seem to be dying."

"Sure, I can count on a date to open the car door on a date to open the car door on my side," she added. "But sometimes it means that I have to sit there like a mummy for two minutes until the poor do it suddenly gets the idea."

Another spokesman for the feminine cause, this time in Vancouver, spoke out even more strongly. "They expect us to be just too darn independent," she said.

Worst Time

"The worst time of all is at parties where the boys wind up on one side of the room talking about cars and the girls decide they'd like to try a new version of the twist—twist the boy friend's neck."

Is the gentle art of manners dying out in this teen-age generation, or is it perhaps just getting more sensible after all these centuries? (After all, why can't a red-blooded healthy girl open a car door?)

"This is something we can probably settle in a quick show of hands. Drop me a line if you have views on the subject, and try presenting all the reasons why you can think of for your side of the case."

For example, do you feel some of the traditional courtesies are outdated in a fast-moving nuclear age? Does it matter whether the fellow or the girl walks on the outside of the sidewalk? Can a healthy girl put on her own coat?

Everyone knows that Sir

Walter Raleigh ruined one of his best coats by putting it across a puddle to keep the feet of his queen dry. But how many times have you heard of a woman doing something similar?

Let us know what you think, and just as soon as possible we'll publish your overall decision on whether the old courtesies are dying out among Canadian teen-agers.

Brain-Teaser

Since so many of you responded to the trick questions I suggested a few weeks ago, here is another one—but don't blame me if it drives you to distraction.

The question: Take the numbers one to nine inclusively and arrange them so that they add up to 100. Each number must be used, but none of them can be used twice.

As a further hint, you can form fractions if you need to. I swore after the first evening that this question was impossible to solve, but it isn't. The best way is to have several friends try it at the same time. Happy hunting!

Teen Success

The 17-year-old singer from Port Arthur, Ont., has overnighted himself into the top rungs of Canada's hit parade—but it's likely that half the people in his own home town don't know of him.

Bobby Cuttola, a dark-haired high school student with a quick grin, is the reason for Cuttola fan clubs all through Canada as well as in the United States, England, Europe and Cuba.

But the young singer, discovered two years ago in his home town by a recording executive, has had a different career than most. His promoters have carefully avoided any high-pressure build-up.

"We have never tried to get newspaper publicity," said Basil Hurdon, one of Bobby's two managers. "Instead we have tried to build him with the high school students in small towns."

This is why, in Bobby's home town, he never makes a personal appearance nor does he receive coverage from either of the two local daily newspapers.

"I think it's wonderful," said Bobby. "This recording business can be a strain. On the road I never take girls out, but at home they leave me to myself. I go around with the kids I grew up with."

Everyone knows that Sir

ask Andy HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Philip E. Cook, age 9, of Deatsville, Ala., for his question:

Does a spider get tangled in her own web?

If you get up bright and early, you may get a chance to watch a spider spin her silken web. A likely place is a garden or shrubbery where you have seen the round nets made by the orb web spider.

She is a pretty orange colored lady and if you are very still, she will let you watch her work. If you have a magnifying glass you can watch the work more closely. This little creature usually builds a whole new web every day and you will be amazed to see how well she does it and how much work goes into it.

The silkworm spins a silken thread to make a soft cocoon. The spider spins a silken thread to make her web. We use the silk of the silkworm to make cloth. But a thread of this silk is like heavy string compared with the fine silken thread of the spider. We would need a whole army of busy spiders to weave a scarf, but it would be the softest and the finest silk in the world. The stuff for making the

Spins New Cross Threads

When the sticky wheel is finished, the spider takes out her scaffolding and spins new cross threads, putting them very tight. These threads do not have the beady globes of glue. The finished web is a mixture of firm, dry threads and finer, sticky threads. Mr. Fly does not know which is which, but the spider never forgets. When the little victim buzzes into the trap, he starts to struggle and the more he struggles the more he gets stuck. The spider is hiding in her corner and waiting for just this moment. Our she scurries over the web on her eight feet. She steps only on the dry, safe threads and never once does she put a foot onto a sticky thread.

There are some 40,000 different spiders in the world and most of them are spinners of silk. Some spin rag-taggle webs and some spin webs like funnels. Some spin a long thread for the sole purpose of swinging from twig to twig. One spider spins a web like a gauzy dome and one spins a web like a hammock. Somewhere near each silken trap, a spider waits. At the right moment, out she trips, carefully putting each foot on the non-sticky threads.

Huks Try Comeback

MANILA (AP)—A captured Communist Huk rebel claims the Reds are attempting a comeback in central Luzon Island. Jose Tiamzon, a Huk field commander, was quoted by police as saying the Huks were reorganizing and recruiting new members in an attempt to revive the armed rebellion. Tiamzon was captured two weeks ago.

UN refugee emergency funds of 1958 aided 62,000 refugees, of whom 28,000 have been permanently settled.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—It was Broadway history—but I wouldn't like to see it again...

A pleasing, well-built singer, Miss Travis Hudson, out of Amarillo, Texas, was belting out a song so vigorously at the "New Faces of '62" opening at the Alvin Theatre that she suddenly belted out her "caps"—her temporary chop-chops—right out toward the audience, the critics and me.

"Where are they? Where are they?" I wondered, after the caps had leaped out of her mouth toward me and vanished. "Careful, or they might bite Noel Coward, who's here," somebody said.

Everybody was alerted to be on tiptoe and look at the floor. It was hard for me—I was there sizing up Miss Mickey Wayland, claimed by Leonard Hillman to be a new Ava Gardner. She was bouncing around showing off her "Miss Tennessee" qualifications and saying things like "I'm a Miss America reject."

The other performers, scared about Miss Hudson's chop-chops, asked Marian Mercer to be on the lookout.

"Quit buggin' me! I got to think about my ballad. Oh vo-dee-oh-dee-dee-oh-dee," she said, vocalizing.

Then Miss Mercer, out there ballading, suddenly saw these little white objects on the stage apron—remembered—picked them up fast, passed them along and presently Miss Hudson had her dentition back. Do you know any worse opening night nightmares? I predict that Miss Mercer (and Miss Wayland) will be big stars. How can they fail, with those stories for openers?

Bess Myerson, the beautiful TV performer and ex-Miss America who will marry Attorney Arnold M. Grant in June, only met Grant a couple of months ago when the latter was speaking at a tribute dinner to Ed Sullivan and Bess had to introduce Grant. It went fast after that... Huntington Hartford's "Show" is reported buying out Hugh Hefner's Show Business Illustrated which will cease.

Goodness! (I mean "Badness!") Down in Miami—now they have $1,000-a-week call girls... JFK and Jackie will give the Party of the Year May 19 at the White House for visiting Andre Malraux, the French novelist, historian, Minister of State for Cultural Affairs, and DeGaulle intimate. Guest list will be 500.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Tammy Grimes has been out of "Unsinkable Molly Brown"—bursts... Dorothy Dandridge is off to the French Riviera to begin filming "Marco Polo"... The Sophia Loren-Tony Perkins movie got its third time change; it's now "The Fourth Dimension"...

Keenan Wynn's in town, surprising friends—he's 41 pounds lighter... Producer Joe Levine says that even if Sophia Loren doesn't win an Academy Award he's going to throw her a huge party in N.Y.

NEW NATIONAL BODY
Welfare Council
To Aid Disabled

OTTAWA (CP) — Special needs of such groups as the blind and the disabled will be referred to the national council of welfare, Health Minister Monteith said Wednesday.

The council, whose formation was forecast in the Throne Speech outline of government legislation proposals, will provide valuable help in a field which warrants reassessment, the minister told the Commons.

He was introducing a resolution to increase blind persons allowances to $65 a month from $55 and raise the allowable incomes of recipients, a federal-provincial assistance program. The resolution was later passed and legislation introduced.

Liberal Leader Pearson said the case of the blind always makes a special appeal. While it was his party's view that the monthly allowance should have been raised to $75, support would be given the measure "as far as it goes."

Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) said the increase is insufficient but his group would support it.

Mr. Monteith said about 8,600 blind persons were in receipt of the assistance last March at an annual cost to the federal treasury of just over $4,000,000. The proposed changes would cost slightly over $1,100,000 in a full year, of which $825,000 would represent the federal government's 75-per-cent share.

Liberals Win Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — For the third straight year the Liberal party was elected Wednesday in model parliament elections at the University of British Columbia. The Liberals captured 41 seats of the 80-seat parliament with 1,931 votes. The new Democratic party won 20 seats with 1,223 votes; the Progressive Conservatives 10 with 578 votes, Social Credit eight with 454 votes and Communist one with 101 votes.

'END OF CATHOLIC EDUCATION SYSTEM'
Cardinal Raps JFK School Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman said Wednesday that passage of President Kennedy's $5,700,000,000 federal aid to education bill would bring about the "eventual end" of the Roman Catholic school system in the United States.

The administration measure, made public Tuesday, excluded any federal aid to private or church elementary and high schools.

Boy, 11, Dies of 'Old Age'
In Unusual Medical Case

WATSONVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Eleven-year-old Arthur Baildoy died at his home Tuesday night of old age. His pediatrician said it was one of about 50 recorded cases in the world medical history.

The pediatrician, Dr. Thomas Schmida, called Arthur's disease progeria. The boy weighed less than 30 pounds. He had hardening of the arteries. He was wrinkled as a very aged man. He had a heart condition.

Dr. Schmida said little is known about the disease. It follows no particular pattern and is not hereditary.

The disease was diagnosed when the boy started aging at five years. He was in school until a year ago.

Arthur was the son of Leandro Baildoy, a farm laborer, and had three brothers and sisters ranging in age from two to 13.

The boy's body has been sent to Stanford University research centre.

TWO-LICENCE SYSTEM FOR DRIVERS URGED

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver and District Trades and Labor Council is going to ask Attorney General Bonner for a double licence system for professional drivers such as taximen and truckers.

At present truckers, bus and taxi drivers and the like have a chauffeur's licence which also serves as their private licence.

The council decided Tuesday night to seek to have a two-licence system under which a professional driver convicted as a private driver would have only his private licence suspended. Thus, council said, he could go on earning his living under his chauffeur's licence.

The original suggestion came from the oil workers union.

Aldermen Facing Budget Troubles

BY JOHN MIKA

City council's budget sessions this spring promise some harrowing moments for aldermen.

Whopping budgetary increases already have been proposed for the estimates scrutiny in March and wage negotiations may add further burdens.

Proposals and appropriations that would boost last year's expenditures so far total close to $170,000—equivalent to almost two mills.

These suggestions come on top of an assessment roll reduction resulting from the new provincial formula which will force council to raise last year's mill rate just to take in the same number of dollars.

Leg Chains Left Off, Guards Fired

MONTREAL (CP)—Five prison guards assigned to St. Luke Hospital, from where convict Roger Ducharme escaped Monday, have been suspended for negligence.

Lt. Col. Leon Lambert, Bordeaux jail governor, said the men were "negligent in not obeying orders to keep Ducharme tied to his bed by means of leg chains."

Ducharme, 30, serving 14 years for attempted murder of a police officer, escaped after over-powering two guards. He was in hospital for an operation to remove spoon handles and bits of wire he had swallowed.

MOTHER'S WISH AGAINST SON'S KILLER

... Die a Thousand Deaths

NEW YORK (AP)—"May he die a thousand deaths a day," Mrs. Frances Krzesinski, mother of the slain Anthony Agron, refused to talk to reporters, but this note addressed to the press was posted on the door of her apartment: "Agron will live on our tax which we must pay, but I wish he never has a good day for the rest of his life. May he die a thousand deaths a day."

In another note addressed to the governor—Mrs. Krzesinski said Agron "should pay the penalty for his crime to the fullest extent, death in the electric chair."

NEW SAANICH POLICY

Street Lighting Charges Reduced

A new policy designed to encourage home owners to install, under local improvement bylaws, more lights on badly illuminated streets, has been approved by Saanich council.

Municipal engineer Neville Life today said Saanich has agreed to share the costs of street lighting in residential areas by taking care of maintenance. Residents will only pay capital costs.

Under council's former policy, residents had to foot the entire bill for street illumination.

The new set-up means a considerable saving for home owners. They will pay about $8 a year for a period of 10 years and nothing after that.

Mr. Life expects council's new policy to be followed by a deluge of requests for street lighting under local improvement bylaws.

"Badly illuminated streets appear to be a sore point with many residents," he said. He also said council has approved the expenditure of $15,000 for the purchase of 60 mercury-vapor lamps to be installed at dangerous intersections and main thoroughfares. This will be paid out of general revenue.

Last year Saanich spent about $10,000 installing about 40 lamps on main streets. Some of these were installed on Lansdowne, Burnside, Cedar Hill Cross Road and Saanich Road.

A few lights were also installed at dangerous intersections in the rural areas of the municipality.

Fish Catch For B.C. Zoomed In '61

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian landings of sea fish and shell fish rose 11 per cent in 1961 from the previous year to 1,956,761,000 pounds from 1,679,736,000.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today that the value of the 1961 catch was $96,841,000, an increase of eight per cent from the 1960 value of $89,638,000.

Catch on the Atlantic coast for 1961 dropped eight per cent to 1,225,807,000 pounds valued at $58,804,000 from 1,339,185,000 pounds worth $59,772,000 the previous year.

The take on the Pacific Coast zoomed up 85 per cent to 630,954,000 pounds worth $38,037,000 from 340,551,000 valued at $29,866,000 in 1960.

Copper Firm's Expansion To Employ 100 More Men

COURTENAY—Mt. Washington Copper Co. Ltd. is planning expansion which will employ more than 100 district workers.

Manager S. J. O. McClay said that present indications justify the installation of an ore concentrator capable of processing more than 500 tons of ore per day. He added that development ore is averaging 2 per cent copper with precious metals amounting to more than $2 per ton.

"Although nothing definite has been decided, we have already stock piled more than 1,200 tons of commercial grade ore in anticipation of its construction," Mr. McClay said. Underground work is continuing and 260 feet of tunnel have been dug.

UBC Symposium

Sixth annual UBC Academic Symposium will be held on the weekend at the Island Hall Hotel in Parksville, when the subject of discussion will be "The Role of Universities in World Society."

Dr. John Peter of Victoria College, and third-year students Gordon Shrimpton and Leslie Millin, will take part in the two-day event.

Total attendance, of professors, alumni, and students, is expected to exceed 200.

Ditch Caves In

COURTENAY—A young Courtenay construction worker was buried in mud and rock Wednesday when the eight-foot ditch in which he was working collapsed.

Ronald McKim, employee of Quadra Construction Co., suffered shock, multiple fractures and a pelvis broken in two places when he was covered to his neck in the cave-in.

"I felt like I was being squashed," he said, "but it did not hurt much."

Dr. D. M. Miller said McKim is in fair condition but will be confined in hospital for several weeks. He will be unable to work for at least six months.

McKim said: "Someone yelled, 'I looked up, and then I was covered. They dug me out with shovels.'"

Child Starts Fire

UCLUELET—A fire believed started by a youngster playing with matches levelled the frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Touchit and their three children this week.

Both parents were away at the time of the fire. The children, aged five, four and two, were rescued by a relative who had been looking after them.

The blaze was confined by volunteer workers. There was no insurance.

Winter Scout Camp

COURTENAY—Fifty-five Comox Valley Scouts will spend the weekend camped in the snow, deep in the woods of the Tsalie River Valley.

The Scouts are senior members and leaders of six Comox Valley troops. They will hike for an estimated three hours after driving as far as possible. The survival exercise will last two days.

School Budget

DUNCAN—Budget of Cowichan School District 65 for this year is $1,508,627, well up from the total of $1,322,300 a year ago.

Ladysmith School District 67 has approved a budget of $814,305. Figure for 1961 was $778,638.

Fire Hall

PORT ALBERNI—Thieves who broke into the fire hall here Tuesday night or Wednesday morning took $80 in cash from a fund belonging to volunteer firemen.

Police came promptly when called. Their office is right next door.

Sewing Classes

SOOKE—Two sewing classes at Milnes Landing High School.

Creditors Accept 80 Cents on $1

VANCOUVER (CP)—Peace River businessmen have agreed to accept 80 cents on the dollar to cover $220,000 in debts left by a pipe-line builder who went broke.

The offer was made by the B.C. Oil Transmission Company Limited and was accepted unanimously by the 52 businessmen at a meeting in Fort St. John today.

Camera Club Meet

GANGES—Gulf Islands Camera Club will hold a workshop on "Flash Photography" Feb. 17 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. W. Seymour, Fulford.

Marshall Sharp, president, will be instructor for the evening.

Laundromat Planned

GANGES—Armand Quessel has completed plans to open a laundromat on Jackson Avenue, Ganges.

Mr. Quessel has installed three washing machines and two dryers as a start for his new business, and expects to be ready to open to the public about Feb. 15.

started by Sooke school board as an experiment in night school activity, are proving successful, according to board chairman John S. Williams.

As a result, other classes may be started at Belmont High School, he said.

He said a survey of the district had shown growing interest in night school classes, especially in the outlying areas. Enrollment is close to 30 in the night classes, and other groups are asking for similar facilities.

Holstein Herd Wins

DUNCAN—The Holstein herd of Albert Baumgart, Cowichan Station, with the highest production average in the Cowichan Dairy Herd Improvement Association for January, won the Buckfield prize for the month.

The average was 1,565 pounds of milk and 61.9 pounds of butterfat per animal, or more than 50 pounds per cow per day at nearly 4 per cent butterfat.

The Brackman-Ker prize for the individual record went to Norman Quist, Westholme, on the production of his Quist-farm Floss-Ho, which gave 17,249 pounds of milk and 677 pounds of butterfat in 305 days.

High two-year-old and winner of the Cowichan Creamery Award was Hidden Meadows Farm's entry, which gave 15,265 pounds of milk and 534 pounds of fat.

Change in Northern Ferry Route Urged

A proposed ferry link between Prince Rupert and Vancouver Island should go by way of Kelsey Bay instead of Port Hardy, Prince Rupert Social Creditor William Murray told the Legislature Wednesday.

He said this would form a natural link with the new Alaska ferry system and provide an earlier means for a motorist to drive from Alaska down the mainland to Vancouver or Seattle, then over to Vancouver Island by way of Victoria or Nanaimo and back by ferries to Alaska.

But he was skeptical that such a link would come in the near future if it was to touch Vancouver Island by way of Port Hardy.

His suggestion "would be a complete comprehensive highway plan, both from Prince Rupert and Vancouver Island," the member said.

He urged also that the government develop the Trans-

Provincial highway in the north, and in addition to seek federal assistance enabling the highway to jump the 90 miles offshore to the Queen Charlotte Islands.

This highway should include the centres of Haida, Massett, Port Clements, Tlell, Skidegate, Queen Charlotte City and the road from Alliford Bay to Sandspit on Moresby Island.

SAVE 600 MILES

Mr. Murray pointed out that future CNR freight shipments would go to Alaska via Prince Rupert rather than Seattle because of a saving of 600 water miles and the institution of American vessels on the daily Rupert-Alaska run.

Previously, U.S. law prevented freight shipments from a Canadian port to a U.S. port in a Canadian vessel.

"As surely as the great port of Vancouver will become the San Francisco of British Columbia, so Prince Rupert will become the Seattle of British Columbia," he said.

'Go and Be Good Boy,' Douk Told

(Compiled from CP)

NELSON — A Sons of Freedom Doukhobor stepped out of the prisoner's box a free man here Wednesday after Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan ruled that a statement he gave police last Nov. 20 was inadmissible.

The assize court judge told 30-year-old Andrew Tarasoff "to go and be a good boy," as he released him from an arson charge in connection with the burning of two buildings at Champion Creek last August 19.

The Freedomite was jointly charged with Pete Repin, and the brothers Edward and Paul Perepolkin.

As the man stepped from the prisoner's box, clapping and soft cheers broke out in the gallery packed with Freedomites. Overcome with joy, the man's mother rose from her seat and walked out of the courtroom with her son.

Tarasoff has been in jail since November 20.

Statements given police by the other three men and which were entered as evidence had pointed to Tarasoff as the getaway man in the offence.

Poisoner Hunted

KELOWNA — The Kelowna Kennel Club Wednesday posted a $25 reward for apprehension of a dog poisoner police say is responsible for the deaths of eight dogs.

The reward was posted after two more small dogs were found Tuesday. It is believed they died of a strychnine poisoning.

The poisoner has been leaving poisoned bait in the yards of homes.

Kennel Club officials said the poisoner is a crank not after just one dog, but all dogs.

'Front Man'

VANCOUVER — A peace rally headed by Dr. Norman Alcock of Toronto was interrupted at the University of British Columbia Tuesday night by an unscheduled loud-speaker broadcast charging him with being a front man for Communists.

The incident occurred in UBC Armories before 2,500 persons in the final minutes of a question period at a meeting at which the Canadian Peace Research Institute launched a Vancouver drive for funds.

The public address system went dead. Then a voice boomed out from near the platform, saying:

"Some matters about peace have not been mentioned here tonight."

The voice went on to accuse the former Chalk River scientist the founder of the institute for promoting peace through science, of fronting for a Communist-led organization in the United States.

Two men from the audience seized a man sitting at a table near the platform. They turned off a tape-recording machine after a scuffle and the regular public address system was turned back on.

After the meeting the man who was seized at the table identified himself as Geza Benko, 27, a UBC post-graduate student and a Hungarian refugee who graduated from Sopron Forestry Faculty at UBC three years ago.

Benko said he played the recording on instructions of an anti-Communist campus group called the Canadian Society for Human Rights.

Sawmill Strike

PRINCE GEORGE — Some 25 men employed at Quality Spruce Mills at Topley, 90 miles west of here, have walked off their jobs in the first strike action by the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) in the interior since 1934.

Local IWA president, Jacob Holst, said Wednesday the men are striking for standard wages and conditions as established in the last agreement signed with the Northern Interior Lumbermen's Association.

Youth Killed

CHILLIWACK — Garry Wierks, 15, apparently unaware that he had been seriously injured by a rolling log, died after walking part of the way to hospital. Employees at a nearby logging camp came to his aid when he collapsed while walking to a truck after the log rolled over him.

Pleads Guilty

VANCOUVER — Arthur Barker, 44, Canadian vice-president of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, was remanded in custody for two days Wednesday after pleading guilty to possession of smuggled goods. Barker admitted having a set of binoculars on which customs duty had not been paid. His counsel said he had purchased them from an Oriental on the docks.

CANCER FORUM AROUSES INTEREST

Victoria women are showing great interest in a free cancer clinic to be held Sunday afternoon in Odeon Theatre, and it is expected all seats will be filled when the program commences at 3 p.m.

The theatre holds 1,470 and seating will be on a "first-come first-serve" basis. No reservations will be made.

This special cancer forum, for women only, will present a panel of four doctors who will answer questions and speak on latest facts about new medical advances in the treatment of cancer of the cervix. They are Dr. H. K. Fidler and Dr. David Boyes of Vancouver and Dr. Arthur B. Nash and Dr. D. B. Roxburgh of Victoria.

Figures just released by Dr. Fidler, who is director of the cytology laboratory of the B.C. Cancer Institute, show that simple uterine tests taken during a recent 12-month period resulted in detection of 217 proven cases of early carcinoma of the cervix. Discovered at this stage, cancer of the cervix is almost 100 per cent curable. At later stages it is about 50 per cent curable, Dr. Fidler says.

The free forum on Sunday is sponsored jointly by the Victoria Daily Times and the Victoria unit of the Cancer

Society in an effort to induce every woman over 20 to avail herself of this simple uterine test through her family doctor.

These tests, a total of 93,746 in the last calendar year, are sent to Dr. Fidler's cytology laboratory in Vancouver, where skilled specialists can detect cell changes which indicate cancer up to 10 years before noticeable symptoms might appear.

CEMETERY 'FACE-LIFT' CONTINUES

Major improvements in Ross Bay Cemetery's appearance will be seen this summer, Ald. Alfred Toome said today.

City application to remove or rehabilitate broken curb stones and copings of some 215 plots now is being processed by the Public Utilities Commission.

If approved, as expected, the work will follow two similar programs which cleaned up 250 dilapidated graves last year.

"Certainly the appearance of the cemetery has been greatly improved by this work and the annual maintenance costs (about $20,000) should reflect a saving in the labor of hand-cutting grass around some of these graves," said Ald. Toome, chairman of the supervisory committee.

He pointed out every effort was made to contact families connected with the graves but in many cases relatives could not be traced.

Electrocution Death Faced City Motorist

A Victoria man narrowly escaped death by electrocution this week when his car smashed into a power pole on the West Saanich Road.

"It's a wonder he wasn't killed," said Corporal William Stanton of the RCMP Sidney detachment.

He said a car driven by Colin Ratcliffe, 2 Bushby Road, went off the road Monday near Patricia Bay about 10:50 p.m. and snapped the pole off at the base.

STOPPED BY TREE

Pole and wire were carried with the car a further 30 feet until stopped by a large tree. The pole and wires were lying across the car and Cpl. Stanton said Ratcliffe, unhurt, then climbed out of the car.

By a "miracle" all three lines, each carrying 4,000 volts, were unbroken.

Cpl. Stanton said if just one of them had broken and been resting on the car Ratcliffe would have stood "a strong chance" of being electrocuted when his feet touched the ground.

'STAY INSIDE CAR'

"Anytime this happens," Cpl. Stanton urged, "stay in your car and don't touch metal."

He explained that the car's rubber tires would insulate occupants from the current since electricity is only dangerous in this way if it is grounded.

Although the wires were unbroken a transformer near Steley's Cross roads "blew" and residents in the area were without power for about an hour until B.C. Electric linemen under foreman Frank Stenten effected repairs.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

Norman Samson, 2828 Blackwood, $40, careless driving and $25, no driver's licence.

Frederick Victor Armstrong, Work Point, $35, no driver's licence and $25, minor with no insurance.

Eric Marshall, 912 Cloverdale, $40, careless driving.

Brian C. Craig, 1444 Westall, $40, careless driving.

Edward Bryant Baehler, 2400 Alpine, $30, following too close.

Watson Clarence Berry, 569 Leaside, $25, following too close.

Stanley J. Shaughnessy, 3969 Rainbow, $10, no chauffeur's licence.

David Allan, 1697 Knight, $10, running a red light.

Ferenc Laszlo, Woodside Farm, R.R. 2, $15, leaving car with motor running.

Municipal Tax Ease Forecast for Budget

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett tells his budget secrets Friday, and they are expected to include a heavy spending program.

As usual details are top-secret until the premier starts his speech in the legislature at 3 p.m.

However, there are indications of looser purse strings this year, and of higher revenues.

Spending speculation for the 1962-63 fiscal year is centred around:

- A general raise for civil servants;
- More aid for schools;
- More relief for municipal tax burdens;
- More money for hospitals and welfare payments;
- New provincial buildings.

EDUCATION AID

It is more than a month since the end of negotiations between the B.C. Government Employees' Association and the Civil Service Commission for a general pay boost.

B.C.G.E.A. Secretary E. P. O'Connor was in Victoria Wednesday trying to learn the result.

He was unsuccessful, but he hopes it will be in the budget. More aid for education and municipalities was predicted in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the session. Municipal problems have been spotlighted this year by vigorous complaints about the government's new equalized assessment formula.

The premier has promised to deal with this subject in the budget speech.

ALTERNATIVES CITED

The speculation is that he will soothe complaints either by increasing grants-in-aid on local government or by raising the homeowner grant by a few dollars from the present $50.

A lift for the public works department is expected in order to pay for some of the new buildings in planning stages for government departments. A total appropriation of some $20,000,000 almost double last year's amount, is expected.

The budget total will be in the neighborhood of $345,000,000.

This would be a new record; last year's budget was for $339,968,599.

OTHER FRILLS

Other budget frills expected: new northern park development; the answer to the fate of the $2 a night camping fee—either dropped or extended; some braggadocio about ferries; less money for highways.

ASK THE TIMES

Q—It was the custom almost everywhere in England, and still is in some towns, for the taverns to have a picture of a bush hung outside. Hence the saying "Good wine needs no bush." An old tavern in London, the "Bull and Bush" is still in business. Could you tell me how the custom originated?—J.W.K.

A—The bush was the common sign of taverns all over Europe, and even today in Austria, for instance, evergreen sprays are hung outside wine gardens to signify that the year's crop is ready for consumption. Originally the bush was of ivy, a plant sacred to Bacchus, the rowdy Roman god of wine. The proverb "Good wine needs no bush" is Latin, showing that the custom was introduced into Europe by the Romans, and means that a good article will sell itself.

BCE Linemen Deny Yielding Strike Rights

B.C. Electric linemen intend to press for the right to strike, Victoria Labor Council was told Wednesday night.

Jack Driscoll, business manager of the electrical workers' union, told VLC delegates that a statement by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson was wrong.

"When Mr. Peterson announced that B.C. Electric employees would retain all bargaining rights up to and including conciliation boards, but not the right to strike—he intimated we were prepared to accept the decision," Mr. Driscoll said.

But he maintained that was not the case.

FUNDAMENTAL

"The right to strike is fundamental to the trade union movement and we reserved the right to press for full bargaining rights."

Education committee chairman John Nicol said jobless workers should learn the unemployment insurance regulations before answering investigators' questions.

He said the UIC investigators are in the area now. Questions they are asking recipients, he suggested, could result in disqualification if terms of the Act are not fully understood before answers are given.

Over from Vancouver is Robert Ludwig, founder and president of the Ideas Clinic—an organization devoted to the exchange and promotion of ideas.

The clinic has picked William Mattick of Mattick's Farm as Victoria's leading Man of Ideas, and Mr. Ludwig was presenting him with a plaque to that effect this afternoon.

Mr. Mattick is a Saanich farmer who sells directly to the public. He also operates a nine-hole golf course and recently applied for permission to open a combination English-style pub and German-style beer garden.

"Have they started pulling the old place down yet?" asked a man on the phone to Victoria Courthouse Wednesday afternoon.

Who said it was going to be pulled down?

Postal historian Robert G. Woodall writes from England seeking information about a Victoria man named Harry Anthony who once carried mail in the Yukon Territory.

Mr. Woodall is compiling a postal history of the Yukon. He states that Mr. Anthony carried a letter from Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, at Herschel Island to Dr. Grafton Burke at Fort Yukon in 1918.

"I would welcome more information about Mr. Anthony or anyone who delivered mail in the Porcupine River district of the Yukon Territory," says Mr. Woodall.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce receives upwards of 12 inquiries a week from would-be settlers.

"They come from all parts of Canada and the United States and from European countries as well," says assistant secretary Lou Worrell.

"We used to hear mainly from elderly folk. Now we get letters from young and middle-aged couples and single men and women."

"They are chiefly concerned with our climate and the cost of living."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A Gordon Head boy is in fairly good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today after suffering a fractured skull and collar bone Wednesday.

Saanich police said seven-year-old David Carere, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Carere, 2264 Arbutus, ran out from behind a large truck parked at Arbutus and Locarno Lane and was struck by a car driven by Julius Fichtner, 3195 Stevenson.

Willson Woodside, noted Canadian journalist and national director of the United Nations Association in Canada, will speak at a public meeting in Victoria Public Library, on Monday, at 8 p.m., on the current UN crisis.

Sponsor of the meeting is the Victoria branch of the association.

Mr. Woodside has been an observer of UN affairs since its inception, and national director of the Canadian association since 1958.

Charles Brown, 624 Baker, was bound over to keep the peace for six months on a bond of $100 after conviction in city police court today of common assault.

William Kingsat, 488 Swinford, said Brown had hit him in the mouth, breaking his plate, while the two were having an altercation in Brown's Book Shop, Douglas Street, office Jan. 10, about 7:30 p.m.

French Film Committee announced today that tickets for the film showing of Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" at the Fox Theatre on Feb. 19 at 4 and 8 p.m. are selling briskly. But some are still available from the Marionette Book Shop, Douglas Street, EV 3-1012.

'Red and White' Ayrshires To Show at Jaycees' Fair

Vancouver Island Ayrshire Club will hold its 18th annual "Red and White" show May 19 in cooperation with the management of Victoria Industrial and Agricultural (Jaycees) Exhibition, club officials announced today.

The date will be the earliest it has ever been held. In the past four years it has been a feature either of the Cowichan or Saanich fair.

Decision regarding the show, named "Red and White" for the distinctive coloring of Ayrshire cattle, was made at

Col. L. E. Sarantos, director of supplies and transport for the Canadian army, will visit Victoria, Feb. 16 and 17, in the course of a visit to service corps units in B.C.

He will be accompanied by Lt. Col. D. A. Harper, command supply and transport officer, Edmonton, and Lt. Col. J. E. Brown, B.C. area.

Anti-tank platoon of support company, 1st Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will carry out firing practice at Albert Head from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Feb. 14 and 16.

Weapon will be 106 mm recoilless rifles, firing to seaward. Shipping has been warned to stay clear.

John Lort, librarian at Victoria Public Library, will propose the toast of the Immortal Memory at a dinner commemorating the 150th anniversary of the birth of Charles Dickens in the Dominion Hotel next Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

The dinner is being sponsored by the Victoria branch of the Dickens Fellowship.

Donald Schultz, no fixed address, received prison sentences totaling 15 months in city police court Wednesday for uttering forged cheques.

He was sentenced to three months on each of five charges. City police said the cheques were made out for $75, $11, $35 and two for $25.

A. J. Saunders, local consulting engineer, has been elected chairman of the Victoria Advisory Planning Commission appointed by city council.

A member of the commission for seven years, he succeeds Major H. Cuthbert Holmes who has served in that post since 1951 when the commission was established.

Maj. Holmes declined to stand for re-election because of his health.

Ayrshire club president Joe Saville of Deep Cove and secretary Len Phillips, Cowichan Station, are confident that a good showing of 50 head from seven or eight breeders can be arranged.

It will be an attraction at the exhibition and will qualify for the national Ayrshire show grants, they said.

Dr. J. C. Berry, of the University of British Columbia, has been invited to judge the show.

THREE HURT IN 'PRANG' ON HIGHWAY

Two cars were wrecked and three people taken to hospital Wednesday in an accident at about 7:30 a.m. on the Patricia Bay Highway at East Saanich Road.

At Rest Haven Hospital today, 11-year-old Hugh Zacharias, 959 Greig, Brentwood, is in satisfactory condition with head injuries and concussion, and James Iverson, McTavish Road, is "quite satisfactory."

Robert Zacharias, father of the boy, was to be released at noon today.

Sidney RCMP said a car driven by Zacharias pulled out from a stop sign onto the highway and was struck broadside by a car driven by Eric Watters, 538 Mel drum, Deep Cove.

Esquimalt Ships Cruising Orient, Singapore-Bound

Three destroyer escorts of the RCN Pacific command, on an extended training cruise, left Yokosuka, Japan, Wednesday, after spending nine days at the U.S. and Japanese naval base.

HMC Ships Assiniboine, Margaree and Ottawa are now bound for Singapore, with a brief stop at Subic Bay, Philippines, en route.

Students Give Blood In National Contest

Times College Correspondent

Students of Victoria College today began donating their blood to the Canadian Red Cross as part of a nation-wide contest between universities, and within an hour had contributed seven per cent of the target amount.

Figuring that they need 1,575.45 pints of blood to win the Corpuscle Cup, student officials arranged with the Red Cross to hold a two-day clinic at the college today and Friday, pre-empting one of the library's reading rooms for the purpose.

Students were lined up at the door when the clinic opened at 9 this morning, and had contributed over 100 pints of blood within the first hour.

Besides the outside contest, a competition has been organized within the college, Faculty of Education against Faculty of Arts and Sciences, and men against women. Arts and sciences took the lead early, with women contributing more than the men within the first few hours of the clinic.

Arrangements have been made so that students unable to give blood for medical reasons may register as donors, so that theoretically a 100 per cent turnout is possible.

Officials of the Pre-Med Club, who are sponsoring the college drive, are hoping for a turnout of about 83 per cent.

Shrum Hints BCE to Pay Civic Taxes

Relief and apprehension were mixed at City Hall today in the wake of a B.C. Electric Company statement on its tax-paying position.

Civic officials are nervously waiting to see if the crown-owned utility will demand a rebate on the $5,700 it paid in business tax last year.

But they welcomed a strong indication that the city won't lose some $180,000 paid annually by the company in property taxes.

REBATE SOUGHT

Company president Dr. Gordon Shrum confirmed Wednesday that the utility is seeking a rebate on the business tax it paid Vancouver last year after it was taken over by the government Aug. 1.

He said the company would refuse to pay taxes in any situation in which it was exempt as a government agency.

Under this policy, the company likely will ask Victoria to hand back $2,375 paid in business tax after last August.

City officials aren't worried about such a small sum but they are concerned that it would mean a $5,700 annual loss in revenue in the future.

CONTRACTS OBSERVED

However, Dr. Shrum said the company would continue paying Vancouver where required by signed agreements.

He added he was confident "that the government is going to pay taxes it has paid in the past, or something in lieu of taxes."

This was welcomed here as an indication that the city won't lose the property taxes—equal to almost two mills—it had collected in the past from the company.

The company's holdings recently were taken off the assessment roll by government order but City Hall officials hoped grants in lieu of taxes would be substituted.

Indian Tot Snatched From Burning Truck

Esquimalt police said William O. Anderson, 251 Hartland, pulled five-month-old Brenda Joyce Thomas from a truck today suffering third-degree burns to face, left arm and leg.

Brenda Joyce and three older children had apparently been left in the truck while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas of Brentwood went inside the hotel to use the washroom.

Moments later someone saw smoke pouring from the truck and Mr. Anderson, who was passing, rescued the child. The other children escaped by themselves.

Newest in Sun Glasses Fold to Handbag Size

By PENNY SAVER

The latest in sunglasses is here and with the weather we've been having already this year, it won't be long before we'll be needing a good pair.

Glasses I'm speaking of are a folding type. They're hinged at the bridge, and at the temples and will fit into a small plastic container about three inches by two inches. For a mere $1.95 they'd be handy for your purse or for hubby's shirt pocket.

Ever see a miniature sacharin server? Well, if you're a thoughtful hostess, mindful of your guests' waistlines, you'll want to get one. The server I saw was a sterling silver, footed dish with lid and handle. It's even complete with tiny tongs. Would make a wonderful gift. Price is only $5.

Was looking at attractive key chains that feature a sterling silver disc the size of a nickel on a clamp style, security lock, ring. The price is $2.95 and you can have one initial engraved on the disc for no extra charge.

A mere $5 is all you'll have to pay to be the proud owner of a handcut crystal lighter and ashtray pair on simulated chaste brass frames. The lighter is on a footed base. You'll love to have this in your home, especially if it is furnished with period furniture.

Travel case for pills is an item you won't want to be without when off on a trip. Made of rich pink satin the cases contain five pill vials, each of which has a clock dial on the liquid tight cap. Set the dial to the time each type of medication is to be taken. Also included in this set that sells for $4 is a plastic spoon for taking liquid medication.

Interested in any of these items? If so, call me and I'll be glad to tell you where to find them.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Your Voice Can Be Either Your Friend or an Enemy

One's voice is the main means of communicating with others. Gestures and facial expressions of course play their part when we talk, but the voice is certainly a great factor in the impression we make on others. Even when we do not know a person, we form a definite opinion and paint a picture of the individual when we hear her or him speak over the telephone or on the radio.

A voice can be soothing, friendly, like music, warm, exciting or intriguing, or it can be harsh, irritating or antagonistic. Many times HOW we say something is more important in its impact on others than WHAT we say. We can say a perfectly harmless thing, but if our voice is harsh or tense, the person with whom we are talking may get an entirely wrong impression of what we are trying to say. On the other hand, we often can talk "straight from the shoulder" and get away with it, if our voice is friendly and calm. Some of the nicest people fall into this trap. They allow the hurry or excitement or fatigue or worries of their daily lives to color their voices. Therefore, their fatigue or worry is transmitted to others who have no connection with either and who, therefore, misunderstand.

Your voice can be your best friend or your worst enemy. The way you breathe has an influence on your voice, too. Deep breathing exercises are healthful and relaxing and by

DEAR ABBY...

One for the Books!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are not young folks. We have married children. Three years ago my husband learned that a school-time sweetheart, whom he never ceased to love, was living in an eastern city. While on a business trip, he drove some distance to spend the weekend at her home. He told me all about it.

They have corresponded ever since. Now her husband recently passed on and she wrote that she would like to move to our city because she has "no one." My husband thinks we should ask her to live with us for a while. To me, this is ridiculous. What shall I say?

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a father who pushes the button down on the telephone right in the middle of his daughter's conversation?

ON THE PHONE 30 MINUTES.

DEAR ON: He probably knew you were only "in the middle of your conversation" and didn't want to wait another 30 minutes.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is too much advice. I work with a wonderful, middle-aged man with whom I have fallen in love. He has been married twice, and has four children. He is presently free, and has asked me to be his third wife. I am 20, and two of his children are older than I. The other two are very bratty, and have made it plain that they don't like me. He has custody of all his children.

My clergyman, family and friends have advised me against this marriage. I love this man, and know what I am up against, but I am willing to take the chance. Shouldn't this decision be mine?

WILLING TO GAMBLE

DEAR WILLING: The decision is yours, but don't ignore the advice of those who have only your best interests at heart. Marriage is forever, not something on which you "gamble." Your letter indicates that you are still seeking advice. I say the chances for a happy, lasting marriage with this man are poor.

Elastic Holds Square Neckline in Place

Dear Eunice:

Is there any way of keeping a square neckline dress from gaping? I find this type of neckline most attractive for me but am uncomfortable most of the time because I can't relax while wearing it.

Mrs. M. McW.

Dear Mrs. M. McW.: There is a very simple way of making the square neckline lay perfectly flat and smooth. Actually, it works better if the neckline is rather low cut.

After the facing has been applied to the neckline and it has been clipped at the corners and understitched, press the edges smooth. Now attach a piece of 1/4-inch wide elastic to each corner at an angle.

In order to determine the correct length of the elastic, slip your dress over your head and shoulders, then bring both ends of the elastic under your arms to the middle of your back and mark the exact spot where they cross. Don't pull the elastic too tight or it will make an unattractive fold of extra fabric in front.

Now apply a hook on one end of the elastic and the eye on the other end. This will be hooked to itself and will hold a square neckline close to your body.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Miss Newby Honored

Mrs. Mildred Johns was hostess on Wednesday at her Eastdowne Road home with a shower in honor of Miss Geraldine Jo Newby, a February bride-elect. A corsage of pink Rapture roses was presented to the honor guest and Talisman roses en corsage to her mother, Mrs. R. C. Newby. Invited guests included Miss Brenda Kale, Pullman, Wash.; Mrs. R. A. Gale, Mrs. D. B. Taylor, Mrs. A. J. B. Hill, Mrs. C. G. Jordan, Mrs. Allan Leith, Mrs. H. C. Molyneux, Mrs. H. G. Robinson, Mrs. V. W. Smith, Mrs. J. F. Tysoe, Mrs. P. Weston, Mrs. W. A. Atherton, Mrs. W. A. McDonald, Mrs. R. H. Spilsbury, Mrs. J. A. Pearce, Mrs. Eleanor Walls, Mrs. S. Baxandall, Misses Joyce Applegate, Verna Beek, Elia Creighton and Marianne Johns.

Wedding Guests

Several guests came from Bowen Island to attend the wedding of Miss Jeanne Pedneault and Mr. Paul Vestergaard in Centennial United Church last weekend. They were Mr. and Mrs. P. Pedneault, Mr. and Mrs. E. Pedneault, Miss Debbie Pedneault, Mr. Reid Poole and Mrs. Florence Taylor. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. English and Mr. and Mrs. P. Pearson, all of Chemainus; Mr. and Mrs. R. Francis of Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. P. Savard of Haney, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gildemeister, Mr. Sylvio Dionne, Mr. Jack Wiggs, Mr. Alan Davidson, Mr. Doug Sinkinson, Mrs. F. Christensen and Mrs. Helen Beaton, all of Vancouver.

Luncheon

Spring flowers decorated the refreshment table when graduates of Montreal General Hospital's school of nursing gathered for their annual luncheon in the Beach Drive home of Mrs. R. M. Lane. Mrs. Harry Hodkinson is chairman of the group. Guests included: Mrs. T. Thompson, Mrs. Morley Holland, Townner Bay; Mrs. Harold Webster, Mrs. C. O. Smythies, Mrs. Thomas Bailey, Mrs. Alan S. Taylor, Mrs. A. G. Cockrill, Miss Catherine Motherwell, Salt Spring Island; Miss J. E. Jamieson and Miss Elizabeth Forth.

Valentine Dance

Red hearts, cupid and cut-out flowers will transform the quarter-deck of Canadian Services College Royal Roads, when first and second-year cadets and their friends gather for a Valentine dance on Saturday evening. Decorations are being arranged by Capt. David J. Snowball, PPCLL. Special guests at the informal affair will be Group Capt. A. F. Avanti, RCAF, commandant, and Mrs. Avanti; Dr. E. S. Graham, director of studies, and Mrs. Graham. Guests will dance to the music of the Naden orchestra. A buffet supper will be served.

Co-Hostesses

Mrs. H. P. McKeever and Mrs. E. A. McGowan were co-hostesses at a coffee party in the latter's Irving Road home on Tuesday morning. Mrs. J. Paynter presided at the refreshment table. Also invited were Mrs. J. Alexis, Mrs. S. Orrick, Mrs. J. Barraclough, Mrs. T. Overman, Mrs. H. Botten, Mrs. W. Thompson and Mrs. D. Shepard. Plans were discussed for the St. Margaret's School Fun Fair. The hostesses are co-conveners and guests, stall conveners.

Hear Vows

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Willie, came from Delisle, Sask., on Saturday to attend the wedding of Miss Myrtle Curry and Mr. Raymond Andrew Willie in St. Andrew's Cathedral on Saturday evening. Aurora borealis embroidery highlighted the yoke of her floor-length, white nylon gown that featured a bouffant skirt and lily point sleeves. Chapel-length veil misted from a tiara of pearls and aurora borealis. Red and white carnations were in her cascade bouquet.

Isolation of Jamaica Retards Its Progress

Jamaica is not ready for independence, said Dr. Edith Lucas, guest speaker at Wednesday afternoon's session of the Local Council of Women's annual meeting in the Public Library's Music Room. Two factors have retarded growth, she said. One is the island's isolation. The other is the slow awakening from many years of slavery. That say 100,000,000 slaves as compared to a few thousand white. Dr. Lucas has just returned to Canada after spending a year in the island, setting up correspondence courses for teachers and students who have never gone beyond the elementary level. She said: "About 35,000 pupils a year complete elementary schooling but only 12 per cent ever go beyond that stage. The people as a whole are unaware of the importance of education and even the teachers are very poorly trained. Most youngsters receive about three years of schooling and forget whatever they've learned, even the ability to read or write." She pinpointed Jamaica's refusal to join the proposed Federation of British West Indies to "national immaturity." "The soil is poor, the country mountainous and the people would still rather look to Great Britain to help them than they get into financial difficulties. They have very few exports, imports being greatly in excess. With such a casual attitude it will be a long time before Jamaica begins to develop." What is to be Jamaica's future? Dr. Lucas sees it as a "race between industrialization and the subversive elements in the country. And, as an added danger, there is always the threat of domination of her nearest neighbor, Cuba."

Ladies Auxiliary, Chief and Petty Officers' Association, tonight at 8, Naval Veterans, Hall, 1417 Broad Street. Surprise night. Refreshments served.

CITY'S LACK DRAWS FIRE

The city's lack of an outpatient department came under attack from Mrs. D. MacMillan, health and welfare chairman, at Wednesday afternoon's session of the annual meeting of the Local Council of Women, held in the Public Library's Music Room. "It's amazing to any new comer to see a city of our size without such a service. People of limited means suffer dreadfully because of this. People on social assistance are well cared for medically, but those of limited means, especially retired couples who have just sufficient to keep them from qualifying for assistance, are hard put to finance medical costs and dread becoming 'charity' cases on a private practitioner's list because of inability to pay."

Three feminine guests were among those invited to the third State Dinner held in Government House Wednesday evening. They were, from the left, Mrs. Camille Mather, MLA for the Delta; Mayor Beth Wood of New Westminster, and Mrs. Lois Haggan, MLA for Grand Forks-Greenwood. Mrs. Mather wore a turquoise velvet gown with jet earrings; Mayor Wood was in a black brocade gown with golden-toned-aurora borealis jewelry, and Mrs. Haggan chose a short-length champagne-toned lace dress with pearls. This is the last State Dinner of the present session of the Legislature. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Pearls Enhance Her Bridal Gown

Her grandmother's pearls were "something old" for Myrtle Gladys Curry when she exchanged vows with Raymond Andrew Willie in St. Andrew's Cathedral on Saturday evening. Aurora borealis embroidery highlighted the yoke of her floor-length, white nylon gown that featured a bouffant skirt and lily point sleeves. Chapel-length veil misted from a tiara of pearls and aurora borealis. Red and white carnations were in her cascade bouquet. Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Curry, 3245 Alder Street and Mrs. R. Willie of Delisle, Sask. Mr. Curry gave his daughter in marriage.

Spring flowers decorated the cathedral for the ceremony at which Fr. J. P. Belanger officiated. Miss M. McKay was organist. Royal blue velvet gowns were worn by the six attendants. They were: Matron of honor, Mrs. S. Kingcott; bridesmaid, Mrs. B. Anderson; bridesmaid, Miss Diane Curry; junior bridesmaids, the Misses Gloria Curry and Norma Jean Meakes, and flower girl, Rozanne Crawford. Mrs. Kingcott wore a white picture hat while others had white feathered headresses. All carried colonial bouquets of white carnations. Peter Madsen was best man and ushering guests were Ken Curry and Bill Devitt. All wore white dinner jackets. Ralph Meakes proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in the Club Since Continental Room. Red roses and white tulle surrounded a three-tier wedding cake that centered head table.

National Council Presents Briefs to Federal Government

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was urged Wednesday to set up clinics for treatment and preventive detention of dangerous sexual criminals.

The request was contained in the annual submission to the cabinet by the National Council of Women.

The organization also called on the government to establish youth hostels in Canada's national parks; expressed concern about the high prices of drugs and urged that pensions payable to widows, which are subject to income tax, be exempt from the estate tax.

The submission repeated recommendations made nearly four years ago by the McRuer royal commission on criminal sexual psychopaths.

The council asked for amendments to the Criminal Code under which persons convicted of a "dangerous criminal sexual offence" would be committed by the judge to a government diagnostic clinic.

The council also urged the government to provide after-care to imprisoned drug addicts on their release to enable them "to maintain themselves as acceptable members of society."

The after-care would be provided by psychiatrists, physicians and counsellors.

That Anchor! Don't Toss It

By DON INGHAM

It really happens—The occasional yahoo tosses his anchor overboard without making sure the inboard end of the anchor line is attached to his boat, and often it isn't.

Actually, no anchor should be thrown from a boat. An eastern Canadian yachtsman did that last year and drowned for his pains, because he hadn't made sure the line was not wrapped around his leg, and it was.

It seems such a simple thing to do, to anchor a boat. However, like everything else about boating, there are a dozen wrong ways, and just about one right way. Here are a few tips on procedure which will prevent trouble and give a good, safe berth.

First, have the anchor ready on deck, with line coiled for an easy unobstructed runout, and free end secured to cleat or bitt.

Second, come to the anchorage against the wind, cut the motor, and go into neutral. When the boat has lost all forward movement, and not before, then let the anchor over the side, paying the line out slowly.

Check the line when you feel the anchor hit bottom by taking a turn around the bitt or cleat to apply tension to the line. This will force the anchor fluke to dig into the bottom, since by this time you should be moving slowly astern.

Line Many Times Depth of Water

If there is not sufficient wind, drag back slowly under power.

When you are sure the anchor is holding, let out enough line to give you correct scope. On the smallest cruiser this should be five times the depth of water, but seven to ten times is not too much for bigger craft.

Finally, make certain that your boat will swing clear of other craft, and allow for a change of wind direction. When it comes time to weigh anchor, the first thing to do is hope you have an electric anchor winch, described by most yachtsmen as the luxury they all hope to afford some day.

Otherwise, take up all slack by hand as the boat is brought to a point over the anchor, since it will break free more easily with a direct upward pull. Do not get under way until the anchor is safely on deck.

If the bottom is known to be rocky, it might be wise to attach a tripping line to the anchor's crown, with a float at the other end. This will simplify the raising of what might be a fouled anchor.

There are several types of anchors on the market today, and the small cruisers should find the modern lightweight anchors adequate. Cruising craft, though, should carry one of the up-to-date versions of the common anchor, and one of the lightweight hooks.

For the main anchor, figure one pound of anchor weight for every foot of boat length. Many owners like a length of chain fastened to the anchor ring as the first part of the anchor line, since it cushions wave shock, and saves wear and tear on the rope.

Teachers to Hear Views of Laymen

Laymen will give teachers their views on the effects to date on the year-old Chant Royal Commission report on education during the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association convention over the weekend.

The views will be presented at a panel discussion session on Saturday, the second day of the convention at 10 a.m. Panelists also will discuss future developments arising from the Chant report.

HOLIDAY FRIDAY

Speaking for the laymen will be R. E. Lester of Haney, president of the B.C. School Trustees' Association, and J. W. Nicol, education officer for the Trades and Labor Council in Victoria.

Teachers will be represented by Howard McAllister, vice-principal of Prince of Wales High School in Vancouver, and Harry O'Donnell, director of Elementary Education on the Victoria School Board will be panel moderator.

Some 23,500 students in the Greater Victoria area will have a holiday on Friday, the first of a two-day convention to be attended by 850 local teachers.

Narcotics Stolen

MONTREAL (CP)—A stolen truck, which had contained narcotics among its boxes of merchandise was recovered Wednesday night, empty. The 30 ounces of narcotics were being transhipped to pharmaceutical firms.

FUN, GAMES FOR ALL AT VIC HIGH CIRCUS

The coming circus is the current topic among students and staff at Victoria High School, now preparing a full evening's entertainment for young and old at the school for Friday, Feb. 16.

They admit it isn't a circus in the true sense, but promise lots of fun and games for everyone.

Starting at 7.30 p.m., there will be a midway in the school auditorium, with games of skill, a two-alley bowling-drome, a puppet show for kiddies, stalls selling student handicrafts and a movie theatre. Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria.

A continuous variety show will be staged in the auditorium by the thespians and other student groups and the circus touch will be added by students dressed as clowns.

Proceeds will go to a fund providing drapes for the auditorium and travelling expenses for athletic teams, the choir, the orchestra and drama groups.

"This is the first circus we have held since 1958," said Duncan Lorimer, vice-principal. "On that occasion more than 6,000 parents, relatives and friends paid for admission during the evening."

The school's first "circus" was held in 1944 as a war effort in aid of the Canadian Red Cross.

"We believe this year's will be the best ever," Mr. Lorimer said.

Gatherings Under Ban

PARIS (AP)—Communist and students called for separate mass rallies tonight against the anti-de Gaulle Secret Army Organization, and President de Gaulle's government promptly banned all public demonstrations.

The ads attacked "the creeping menace of socialism."

But after the government took over B.C. Electric last August it appointed Mr. Fouls to the board of directors.

"The very man who waged a campaign against our program of public ownership," he's the first man to get a political plum," said Mr. Harding.

"He was against public ownership. In my opinion he has no right to hold a position on a public body of this type."

Missing Driver In Shock?

LANGLEY (CP)—A Cloverdale man who disappeared from the scene of a fatal car crash five days ago was probably in a state of shock, a survivor of the mishap said Wednesday.

John Stuetz, 28, hasn't been seen since his car and a truck collided on the Trans-Canada Highway near here last Friday night.

His blind date, Pamela Nancy Hennen, 22, was killed in the accident.

Stuetz, Miss Hennen and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wahnschaf were headed for a dance at Sumas, Wash., when the mishap occurred.

Mrs. Wahnschaf said Stuetz was driving the car and was thrown into the back seat by the impact.

"He got out and then he looked at the girl," she said. "His face was very white."

"Then he looked at my husband and said 'Joe'."

Mr. Wahnschaf said Stuetz then walked away.

"He could have been hurt or in a state of shock," said Mrs. Wahnschaf, a housekeeper for oil millionaire Frank McMahon.

RCMP spent two days searching the area for Stuetz and are still waiting for him to turn up.

Knights, Nomads Install Officers

Knights of Khorassan and Nomads of Avudaka recently held a joint installation ceremony in the Knights of Pythias Hall, Cormorant Street.

Elected officers of the Knights were: Len Hewitt, royal vizier; Al Morgan, grand emir; Norm Stewardson, sheik; A. Rodgers, mahedi; J. L. Richards, satrap; A. Hayton, sahib; and J. J. Stewart, secretary. Retiring royal vizier C. Finnemore received the honors and tassel of royal prince.

Nomads' newly-elected officers are Jean Ford, rani; Len Hewitt, ragah; C. Stewart, princess; Stenna Hawkins, pundita; Freda Scott, purhita; Ella Rogers, scribe; F. Brophy, treasurer; Clara Brown, rishi; L. McPhail, 1st warden; G. Mullen, 2nd warden; R. Stacey, samen, and C. Finnemore, director of works.

Retiring rani E. Finnemore and ragah G. W. Pitt were presented their honors and tassels.

Close Inquests To News Coverage

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal criminal lawyer says press coverage of coroners' inquests in Quebec is inadvisable if the coroner is not a member of the bar.

John Gottlieb, who was defence counsel for the late Abel Vosburgh, said such inquests can be poorly conducted and result in the admission of improper statements, questions and challenges.

"Facts" admitted as evidence later turned out to be false, Mr. Gottlieb told a church group Tuesday night.

However, with press coverage of the inquest the harm had been done the defendant before his trial and it became next to impossible to impanel an unbiased jury.

In Quebec, a coroner's inquest must be held in cases of violent death before any charges can be laid.

Mr. Gottlieb said the inquest that led to Vosburgh being charged with murdering his wife and 11 of their children in effect was a witch hunt. Vosburgh died last summer before his trial.

Italians in Lead

OTTAWA (CP)—British immigrants remained in second place behind Italians for the fourth straight year in 1961, the immigration department reported Wednesday.

U.S. EXPANDS VIET NAM AID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today created a new command headed by a general to conduct an expanded U.S. effort to help South Viet Nam beat off the Communist threat.

A U.S. defence department spokesman said the move stresses that "we intend to win" the struggle.

The new command will direct the activities of U.S. aircraft and other units which have been flowing into South Viet Nam over the last few months.

The Pentagon spokesman stressed that "we are not in combat." He said U.S. efforts are limited to supporting and strengthening the pro-Western South Vietnamese with additional equipment, training and advice.

President Kennedy nominated Gen. Paul D. Harkins, now deputy army commander in the Pacific, to head the new command.

The new command will provide a framework for direction of any U.S. combat forces if a decision ultimately is made to use them in South Viet Nam.

FELL OFF SKIS, FAINTED

Weepy Jayne Returns From 'Night at Sea'

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Movie actress Jayne Mansfield, who water-skied gaily out of Nassau Wednesday in a scanty swim suit, returned safely today, shivering and weeping with a story of a harrowing experience at sea and a night on a chilly beach.

She was taken to hospital for treatment of shock, exposure and coral rock cuts.

The actress, her weight-lifting husband, Mickey Hargitay, and a Florida public relations man friend were found safe this morning on a beach at Rose Island after a search touched off when they failed to return Wednesday night from the water-ski trip.

"Don't be upset, honey, sweetheart. It's all right," Hargitay said to Jayne as he led her to a car for the trip to the hospital.

"It was the sharks; that was the worst," said Jayne, who is reported to have an almost uncontrollable fear of sharks.

The Nassau Yacht Club said sharks have not been reported in those waters for many years.

Hargitay was taken to hospital for treatment of a cut leg. He was released after treatment.

Hotel publicist Jack Drury said Jayne as he led her to a car for the trip to the hospital.

By STUART KEATE Times Publisher

NASSAU, Bahamas — Jayne Mansfield was brought back alive this morning, sobbing and bedraggled from her night out on a romantic Bahamian island just in time to meet noon editions of North American newspapers.

It was like a scene from a bad movie when Miss Mansfield, who had been listed "missing" for 18 hours was handed off a rescue yacht in Nassau yacht basin by her solicitous husband Mickey Hargitay.

About 30 U.S. newsmen and photographers, who had hastened to the scene when the Hargitay boat was found overturned and adrift at midnight, jumped into the water and swam to the boat where Miss Mansfield was seated in a deck chair.

TOURISTS THREATENED

One newsreel photographer threatened to "knock tourists into the water" if they got between his camera and the famous movie couple.

Miss Mansfield was wrapped in a blanket and wore a blue cashmere sweater. She was without makeup. Her face appeared puffed and her platinum hair stringy.

However, she managed a wan smile and a wave for crowds clustered around the private car which drove her to a local clinic for examination.

"A perfect capsule," one beach-boy commented.

Menaces Dam

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — A huge ice field descended on the Alton dam, ripping 23 barges from their moorings, after a 12-mile ice gorge broke up Wednesday on the Mississippi River.

U.S. Army engineers said the ice mass threatened downstream shipping and posed a possible danger to the dam. The 23 barges were adrift. Three towboats also were caught in the floating ice.

PAVING BLOCKS HURLED AT PARIS GENDARMES

(See Page 7)

PARIS (AP) — Several hundred demonstrators and riot police clashed tonight just off the historic Place de la Bastille. An undetermined number was injured.

The crowd, which had gathered to protest recent plastic bombings in the capital, ripped up paving blocks from one street and hurled them at police.

The helmeted police, waving nightsticks, charged into the crowd and momentarily dispersed them.

The clash came after Communists and students called for separate mass rallies against the anti-de Gaulle Secret Army Organization in the face of a government ban on public demonstrations.

But Plans Go Ahead For Tests

(Times News Services)

President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Macmillan today proposed elevating the forthcoming disarmament conference in Geneva to the foreign minister level in a "supreme effort" to halt the nuclear arms race.

The proposal was addressed to Soviet Premier Khrushchev. It also was announced by the British and U.S. governments that British-held Christmas Island in the central Pacific was being made available to the United States for nuclear testing.

Macmillan also told Parliament that the United States has agreed to provide suitable facilities in Nevada for the underground testing of one particular British nuclear device within the next few weeks.

A joint statement issued in Washington and in London said recent massive Soviet atmospheric tests "would justify the West" in resuming nuclear testing "for military reasons."

STRONG HINT

While this did not represent a final decision by the president to start atmospheric tests again, he strongly indicated at his news conference Wednesday that this will be his ultimate decision.

The announcement clearly reflected Anglo-American hopes for reviving the stalled nuclear test ban negotiations. The Eighteen-Nation Disarmament Committee is scheduled to begin meetings March 14 at Geneva.

The Anglo-American statement urged that Khrushchev, Kennedy and Macmillan in assuming "a direct and personal interest in these negotiations."

Diplomatic sources said in London that the U.S.-British proposal was made Wednesday in Moscow by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and British Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts. The suggestion was given to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at a 15-minute meeting in the Kremlin, the sources said.

They said Gromyko "took notice" of the proposal, but gave no immediate reply.

The Anglo-American proposal called for the March 14 meeting to "be initiated at the foreign minister level." It said the foreign ministers also should "be prepared to return as personal participants in the negotiations at appropriate stages as progress is made."

'DEEPLY CONCERNED'

The statement said the two governments, although preparing for a test resumption "in various places," also were "deeply concerned for the future of mankind if a halt cannot be called to the nuclear arms race."

"The two governments are, therefore, determined to make a new effort to move away from this sterile contest."

This was a reference to the continuing inability of Russia and the West to reach agreement on a nuclear test ban with what the West considers adequate inspection and control systems.

Kennedy at his news conference injected a new factor almost certain to be rejected by Russia. He said an inspection system would have to guard against secret preparations for testing in addition to detecting actual experiments.

Change BCE Takeover Law — Macfarlane

By AB KENT

Premier Bennett was challenged Wednesday to re-write legislation that enabled B.C. Electric expropriation without the right of appeal negotiation or arbitration.

In a speech in the legislature that dealt for nearly an hour on the takeover and the legal question of right, Oak Bay Liberal MLA Alan Macfarlane called for amendment to the act of last Aug. 1, providing for negotiation of the price put on B.C. Electric assets, and a court decision if no agreement is reached.

"If the government is not prepared to introduce such legislation, then the Liberals in the House serve notice now that they will do so themselves," Mr. Macfarlane said.

HECKLERS BUSY

He was subjected to considerable heckling from the government benches throughout his speech in which he cited many precedents for what he advocates, and read excerpts from national and international publications critical of the legislation.

Mr. Macfarlane, a lawyer, said "it is our responsibility to look at the thing and do something about it."

"You voted for it. Did you make a mistake?" Social Credit members called.

CORRECTS ERROR

"I made this mistake—I put my trust in the premier to do the right thing and he has failed to do it," Mr. Macfarlane said.

"He demanded and got the trust of this House. He stands today in breach of trust because his government has been irresponsible in its action in this matter following the August session," the member said.

He noted at this point the premier's absence from the chamber.

"The real problem here is the damage which has been done to British Columbia's position throughout the investment."

THAILAND BOLSTERS LAOS BORDER

BANGKOK (AP) — Thailand's top officials said today they are considering sending troops in the next few days to Thailand's northern border with Laos.

Prime Minister Niall Sarit Thanarat and his vice-premier and defence minister, General Thanom Kittikachorn, told reporters the fall of Laos' northeastern region to Communist forces seems imminent. Capture of the area would endanger Thailand's northernmost Nan Province.

U.K. Soccer Team May Play Here

Possibility of an English League soccer team playing in Victoria this summer was strongly hinted today by Dave Fryatt of the B.C. Soccer Commission.

The B.C. soccer body earlier announced that a game between Eintracht of Germany and England's Sheffield United has definitely been set for Vancouver early in June.

Fryatt said it also is hoped that B.C. all-star sides will play games with both clubs. In that event, he said, one could be played in Victoria.

"We'd certainly give it serious consideration if an application (by Victoria) was filed."

Power Report Withheld By Socreds — Harding

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The Opposition's chief power spokesman, Wednesday, whipped both Liberal and Social Credit policies and charged the government was withholding information vital to the destiny of the province.

Randolph Harding (NDP, CCF) Kaslo (Slocan) said the government has "based its policy on engineering reports which nobody else had been allowed to see."

Main one is the Crippen-Wright report of 1958.

"If you have information to change my stand on power I won't hesitate one second," said Mr. Harding.

"We in the Opposition need this information. We need it to clarify or modify our power policy. We're Canadians too."

Justice determined to make any sacrifice in the best interests of those who have put this faith in us."

LIBERALS PLAYED

Mr. Harding in an hour-long speech to the legislature also:

• Played the Liberals for changing their power policy;

• Called it "A kangaroo policy with little Raymond (leader Ray Perrault) in the pouch peeping out to see where the Socreds are jumping."

• Said, the present Social Credit two-river plan would push B.C.'s contingent liability debt to $3,000,000,000, by the end of the 1960s; to clarify or modify our power policy. We're Canadians too.

Justice determined to make any sacrifice in the best interests of those who have put this faith in us."

NOT FOR PUBLIC

Mr. Williston said he would let Mr. Harding read the Crippen-Wright report, but he couldn't make it public.

"I don't want to privilege and then have to remain silent," replied the NDP, CCFer.

"We can't give it out because of its position in negotiating downstream benefits," said Mr. Williston.

Mr. Harding said the NDP, CCF power policy was:

• All-public power under one authority;

• Development of the Columbia River first, with Mica Creek dam the key, but elimination of the Arrow Lakes dam;

• No export of power except for supplies on an interruptible basis.

New U.S. Weather Satellite Will Aid Glenn's Flight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States today successfully orbited a Tiros weather satellite and assigned it the task of helping scientists make worldwide weather forecasts for astronaut John Glenn's scheduled space flight next Wednesday.

Tiros IV was launched at Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 7:43 a.m. EST. It completed its first orbit about 100 minutes later.

The new satellite took some cloud pictures from an altitude of more than 450 miles during its first trip around the earth.

These were described as "quite good."

Even better results were obtained the next circuit. Ground stations at Wallops Island, Va., and Princeton, N.J. Both reported "pictures of excellent quality."

Meanwhile weather bureau scientists were geared to process the pictures and send information about the earth's cloud cover to weather forecasters throughout the world.

IN OCEAN AREAS

Dr. Morris Tepper of NASA said weather information from Tiros IV would be particularly useful to forecasters for those areas of the world below Glenn which are not well covered by other means. These are remote ocean stretches.

Tepper said the three recovery areas in the Atlantic where Glenn's space cabin will come down, depending on the number of orbits he makes, already are well covered by standard weather observation methods.

Tepper said it was "quite possible" that information from Tiros about remote areas would be of vital importance if something went wrong and the astronaut had to come down outside the three planned recovery zones.

Centennial Flashback...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

FEBRUARY 8

At 6:45 a.m. today, the trap was sprung from beneath the feet of condemned murderer "Charley," a Cowichan Indian found guilty of killing an RN stoker named Thomas Holmes. He was hung in front of the police barracks as about 300 interested spectators looked on. It was reported he was in good spirits until seconds before the fatal signal was given, at which time he appeared to be in a state of considerable trepidation.

"Charley's" official executioner was a convict, who receives a full pardon and $50 for his work.

Two sailors from the HBC ship Princess Royal were arrested last night, one for being drunk, the other for attacking the first officer.

The trim, speedy schooner, the Pretty Cynthia, was launched to engage in the coastwise trade.

Wealth Survey Shatters Belief

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

For about a decade now the belief has been fostered, principally through the publishers of magazines for women, that the largest chunks of the wealth of North America are controlled by the female of the species.

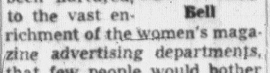

So carefully has this belief been nurtured, to the vast enrichment of the women's magazine advertising departments, that few people would bother to question it.

Now, however, a careful statistical analysis of the personal wealth of the United States has been compiled by the National Bureau of Economic Research, and it destroys this among other popular beliefs about the distribution of wealth.

The fact is, says the bureau study, that there are more rich men (two-thirds of the rich) than women. Furthermore, for men wealth increases with age. Women are richest from age 30 to 50; what happens to these rich women's money after they pass 50, the study asks, "is an intriguing puzzle."

Did Western Mines Ltd. miss any bets in its Butte Lake copper prospect operation?

It's an intriguing question in view of the strenuous staking activities going on in the region since it has been con-firmly that Western Mines has, apparently, sufficient ore for a mining operation of an undetermined size.

From the time Western first took its options on the Lynx, Paramount and Price claims last May, it had a clear lead of six months before any outsiders took an active interest in the area.

During that period, Western's engineers and geologists along with those of Consolidated Mining and Smelting—a major shareholder in Western—made an extensive and exhaustive survey of the ground and made additions to the holdings wherever it was thought useful.

Altogether Western's holdings, run a little over four miles in length and better than a mile in width covering what the company believes to be all possible extensions of mineralized zones.

Another factor to be considered is that the surveys carried out by Western were made, for the most part, during good weather. Subsequent prospecting and staking by other interests was necessarily done in unfavorable weather.

Agreement has been reached between Sinclair Oil Corporation and Dome Petroleum Ltd. for sale of the major part of Dome's holdings to Sinclair Canada Oil Company for $42 million.

The agreement is subject to shareholder approval and a "satisfactory tax opinion."

It would be one of the largest sales in Canadian oil history.

CANCER FORUM AROUSES INTEREST

Victoria women are showing great interest in a free cancer clinic to be held Sunday afternoon in Odeon Theatre, and it is expected all seats will be filled when the program commences at 3 p.m.

The theatre holds 1,470 and seating will be on a "first-come first-serve" basis. No reservations will be made.

This special cancer forum, for women only, will present a panel of four doctors who will answer questions and speak on latest facts about new medical advances in the treatment of cancer of the cervix. They are Dr. H. K. Fidler and Dr. David Boyes of Vancouver and Dr. Arthur B. Nash and Dr. D. B. Roxburgh of Victoria.

Figures just released by Dr. Fidler, who is director of the cytology laboratory of the B.C. Cancer Institute, show that simple uterine tests taken during a recent 12-month period resulted in detection of 217 proven cases of early carcinoma of the cervix. Discovered at this stage, cancer of the cervix is almost 100 per cent curable. At later stages it is about 50 per cent curable, Dr. Fidler says.

The free forum on Sunday is sponsored jointly by the Victoria Daily Times and the Victoria unit of the Cancer

Society in an effort to induce every woman over 20 to avail herself of this simple uterine test through her family doctor.

These tests, a total of 93,746 in the last calendar year, are sent to Dr. Fidler's cytology laboratory in Vancouver, where skilled specialists can detect cell changes which indicate cancer up to 10 years before noticeable symptoms might appear.

CEMETERY 'FACE-LIFT' CONTINUES

Major improvements in Ross Bay Cemetery's appearance will be seen this summer, Ald. Alfred Toone said today.

City application to remove or rehabilitate broken curb stones and copings of some 215 plots now is being processed by the Public Utilities Commission.

If approved, as expected, the work will follow two similar programs which cleaned up 250 dilapidated graves last year.

"Certainly the appearance of the cemetery has been greatly improved by this work and the annual maintenance costs (about $20,000) should reflect a saving in the labor of hand-cutting grass around some of these graves," said Ald. Toone, chairman of the supervisory committee.

He pointed out every effort was made to contact families connected with the graves but in many cases relatives could not be traced.

Municipal Tax Ease Forecast for Budget

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett tells his budget secrets Friday, and they are expected to include a heavy spending program.

As usual details are top-secret until the premier starts his speech in the legislature at 3 p.m.

However, there are indications of looser purse strings this year, and of higher revenues.

Spending speculation for the 1962-63 fiscal year is centred around:

A general raise for civil servants;

More aid for schools;

More relief for municipal tax burdens;

More money for hospitals and welfare payments;

New provincial buildings.

EDUCATION AID

It is more than a month since the end of negotiations between the B.C. Government Employees' Association and the Civil Service Commission for a general pay boost.

B.C.G.E.A. Secretary E. P. O'Connor was in Victoria Wednesday trying to learn the result.

He was unsuccessful, but he hopes it will be in the budget.

More aid for education and municipalities was predicted in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the session.

Municipal problems have been spotlighted this year by vigorous complaints about the government's new equalized assessment formula.

The premier has promised to deal with this subject in the budget speech.

ALTERNATIVES CITED

The speculation is that he will soothe complaints either by increasing grants-in-aid on local government or by raising the homeowner grant by a few dollars from the present $50.

A lift for the public works department is expected in order to pay for some of the new buildings in planning stages for government departments.

A total appropriation of some $20,000,000 paid annually by the company in property taxes.

The budget total will be in the neighborhood of $345,000,000.

This would be a new record; last year's budget was for $339,966,599.

OTHER FRILLS

Other budget frills expected: new northern park development; the answer to the fate of the $2 a night camping fee—either dropped or extended; some braggadocio about ferries; less money for highways.

Q—It was the custom almost everywhere in England, and still is in some towns, for the taverns to have a picture of a bush hung outside. Hence the saying "Good wine needs no bush." An old tavern in London, the "Bull and Bush" is still in business. Could you tell me how the custom originated?—J.W.K.

A—The bush was the common sign of taverns all over Europe, and even today in Austria. For instance, evergreen sprays are hung outside wine gardens to signify that the year's crop is ready for consumption. Originally the bush was of ivy, a plant sacred to Bacchus, the rowdy Roman god of wine. The proverb "Good wine needs no bush" is Latin, showing that the custom was introduced into Europe by the Romans, and means that a good article will sell itself.

Address wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along with the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve problems of legal problems, nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Shape of Things to Come

Giant crane is helping pull Victoria's skyline higher as this photo shows. Rising up from Douglas Street are eight floors of new Westcott Apartments Ltd. building overlooking Beacon Hill Park and four more storeys will be added before construction is completed this fall on tallest apartment building in Vancouver Island at a cost of over $1,000,000.

... HERE AND THERE With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Over from Vancouver is Robert Ludwig, founder and president of the Ideas Clinic—an organization devoted to the exchange and promotion of ideas.

The clinic has picked William Mattick of Mattick's Farm as Victoria's leading Man of Ideas, and Mr. Ludwig was presenting him with a plaque to that effect this afternoon.

Mr. Mattick is a Saanich farmer who sells directly to the public. He also operates a nine-hole golf course and recently applied for permission to open a combination English-style pub and German-style beer garden.

"Have they started pulling the old place down yet?" asked a man on the phone to Victoria Courthouse Wednesday afternoon.

Who said it was going to be pulled down?

Postal historian Robert G. Woodall writes from England seeking information about a Victoria man named Harry Anthony who once carried mail in the Yukon Territory.

Mr. Woodall is compiling a postal history of the Yukon. He states that Mr. Anthony carried a letter from Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, at Herschel Island to Dr. Grafton Burke at Fort Yukon in 1918.

"I would welcome more information about Mr. Anthony or anyone who delivered mail in the Porcupine River district of the Yukon Territory," says Mr. Woodall.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce receives upwards of 12 inquiries a week from would-be settlers.

"They come from all parts of Canada and the United States and from European countries as well," says assistant secretary Lou Worrell.

"We used to hear mainly from elderly folk. Now we get letters from young and middle-aged couples and single men and women.

"They are chiefly concerned with our climate and the cost of living."

BCE Linemen Deny Yielding Strike Rights

B.C. Electric linemen intend to press for the right to strike, Victoria Labor Council was told Wednesday night.

Jack Driscoll, business manager of the electrical workers' union, told VLC delegates that a statement by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson was wrong.

"When Mr. Peterson announced that B.C. Electric employees would retain all bargaining rights up to and including conciliation boards—but not the right to strike—he intimidated us were prepared to accept the decision," Mr. Driscoll said.

But he maintained that was not the case.

FUNDAMENTAL

"The right to strike is fundamental to the trade union movement and we reserved the right to press for full bargaining rights."

Education committee chairman John A. Norri said jobless workers should learn the unemployment insurance regulations before answering investigators' questions.

He said the UIC investigators are in the area now. Questions they are asking recipients, he suggested, could result in disqualification if terms of the Act are not fully understood before answers are given.

Electrocution Death Faced City Motorist

A Victoria man narrowly escaped death by electrocution this week when his car smashed into a power pole on the West Saanich Road.

"It's a wonder he wasn't killed," said Corporal William Stanton of the RCMP Sidney detachment.

He said a car driven by Colin Ratcliffe, 2 Bushby Road, went off the road Monday near Patricia Bay about 10:50 p.m. and snapped the pole off at the base.

Pole and wire were carried with the car a further 30 feet until stopped by a large tree.

The pole and wires were lying across the car and Cpl. Stanton said Ratcliffe, unhurt, then climbed out of the car.

By a "miracle" all three lines, each carrying 4,000 volts, were unbroken.

Cpl. Stanton said if just one of them had broken and been resting on the car Ratcliffe would have stood "a strong chance" of being electrocuted when his feet touched the ground.

STAY INSIDE CAR

"Anytime this happens," Cpl. Stanton urged, "stay in your car and don't touch metal."

He explained that the car's rubber tires would insulate occupants from the current since electricity is only dangerous in this way if it is grounded.

Although the wires were unbroken a transformer near Stelley's Cross roads "blew" and residents in the area were without power for about an hour until B.C. Electric linemen under foreman Frank Stenten effected repairs.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A Gordon Head boy is in fairly good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today after suffering a fractured skull and collar bone Wednesday.

Saanich police said seven-year-old David Carere, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Carere, 2254 Arbutus, ran out from behind a large truck parked at Arbutus and Locarno Lane and was struck by a car driven by Julius Fichtner, 3195 Stevenson.

Willson Woodside, noted Canadian journalist and national director of the United Nations' Association in Canada, will speak at a public meeting in Victoria Public Library, on Monday, at 8 p.m., on the current UN crisis.

Sponsor of the meeting is the Victoria branch of the association.

Mr. Woodside has been an observer of UN affairs since its inception, and national director of the Canadian association since 1958.

THREE HURT IN 'PRANG' ON HIGHWAY

Two cars were wrecked and three people taken to hospital Wednesday in an accident at about 7:30 a.m. on the Patricia Bay Highway at East Saanich Road.

At Rest Haven Hospital today, 11-year-old Hugh Zacharias, 959 Greig, Brentwood, is in satisfactory condition with head injuries and concussion, and James Iverson, McTavish Road, is "quite satisfactory."

Robert Zacharias, father of the boy, was to be released at noon today.

Sidney RCMP said a car driven by Zacharias pulled out from a stop sign onto the highway and was struck broadside by a car driven by Eric Watters, 538 Mel-drum, Deep Cove.

Esquimalt Ships Cruising Orient, Singapore-Bound

Three destroyer escorts of the RCN Pacific command, on an extended training cruise, left Yokosuka, Japan, Wednesday, after spending nine days at the U.S. and Japanese naval base.

HMC Ships Assiniboine, Margaree and Ottawa are now bound for Singapore with a brief stop at Subic Bay, Philippines, en route.

Students Give Blood In National Contest

Times College Correspondent

Students of Victoria College today began donating their blood to the Canadian Red Cross as part of a nationwide contest between universities, and within an hour had contributed seven per cent of the target amount.

Figuring that they need 1,575.45 pints of blood to win the Cupus Cup, student officials arranged with the Red Cross to hold a two-day clinic at the college today and Friday, pre-empting one of the library's reading rooms for the purpose.

Students were lined up at the door when the clinic opened at 9 this morning, and had contributed over 100 pints of blood within the first hour.

Besides the outside contest, a competition has been organized within the college, Faculty of Education against Faculty of Arts and Sciences, and men against women. Arts and sciences took the lead early, with women contributing more than the men within the first few hours of the clinic.

Arrangements have been made so that students unable to give blood for medical reasons may register as donors so that theoretically a 100 per cent turnout is possible.

Officials of the Pre-Med Club, who are sponsoring the college drive, are hoping for a turnout of about 83 per cent.

Shrum Hints BCE to Pay Civic Taxes

Relief and apprehension were mixed at City Hall today in the wake of a B.C. Electric Company statement on its tax-paying position.

Civic officials are nervously waiting to see if the crown-owned utility will demand a rebate on the $5,700 it paid in business tax last year.

But they welcomed a strong indication that the city won't lose some $180,000 paid annually by the company in property taxes.

Company president Dr. Gordon Shrum confirmed Wednesday that the utility is seeking a rebate on the business tax it paid Vancouver last year after it was taken over by the government Aug. 1.

He said the company would refuse to pay taxes in any situation in which it was exempt as a government agency.

Under this policy, the company likely will ask Victoria to hand back $2,375 paid in business tax after last August.

City officials aren't worried about such a small sum but they are concerned that it would mean a $5,700 annual loss in revenue in the future.

However, Dr. Shrum said the company would continue paying Vancouver where required by signed agreements.

He added he was confident "that the government is going to pay taxes it has paid in the past, or something in lieu of taxes."

This was welcomed here as an indication that the city won't lose the property taxes—equal to almost two mills—it had collected in the past from the company.

The company's holdings recently were taken off the assessment roll by government order but City Hall officials hoped grants in lieu of taxes would be substituted.

'Red and White' Ayrshires To Show at Jaycees' Fair

Vancouver Island Ayrshire Club will hold its 18th annual "Red and White" show May 19 in cooperation with the management of Victoria Industrial and Agricultural (Jay-see) Exhibition, club officials announced today.

The date will be the earliest it has ever been held. In the past, four years it has been a feature either of the Cowichan or Saanich fall fairs.

Decision regarding the show, named "Red and White" for the distinctive coloring of Ayrshire cattle, was made at a meeting of club directors at Nanaimo.

Ayrshire club president Joe Saville of Deep Cove and secretary Len Phillips, Cowichan Station, are confident that a good showing of 30 head from seven or eight breeders can be arranged.

It will be an attraction at the exhibition and will qualify for the national Ayrshire standard of "Red and White" show grants, they said.

Dr. J. C. Berry, of the University of British Columbia, has been invited to judge the show.

U.S. Sets Off Underground A-Test

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States today conducted an underground nuclear test of low yield at its site in Nevada. It was the 12th announced U.S. test since this country resumed nuclear experiments after Russia broke a voluntary three-year test moratorium.

Ex-Policeman Denies Station Theft

MEDICINE HAT (CP)—William Plotzky, 26, former member of the Medicine Hat police force, pleaded not guilty in Supreme Court today to a charge of stealing "one fish and tackle box containing cash and currency." The charge was laid in connection with the disappearance Oct. 30, 1960, of a box containing more than $44,000 in cash and cheques from the police station. Plotzky, who was on desk duty at the time, later was found unconscious on the station floor.

Police Battle 10,000 In Paris

PARIS (Reuters)—Truancy swinging police to night battled with an estimated 10,000 demonstrators staging street protests throughout the city against right-wing extremists.

At least 150 persons, including 100 policemen, were injured as the demonstrations deteriorated into riots.

Sunday Municipal Vote Asked

QUEBEC (CP)—The City of Montreal today asked the Quebec Legislature for authority to hold its municipal elections on Sundays.

It is believed Montreal would be the only Canadian city to hold Sunday elections, a wide-spread practice in some European countries.

A-Bombs 'De-Activated'

OTTAWA (UPI)—Defence Minister Harkness said today American bombers fly over Canada carrying nuclear weapons, but they get permission beforehand and deactivate their arms.

He told the Commons this policy has been followed since 1956. He said U.S. planes made "certain routine flights" over Canada.

Weepy Jayne Returns From 'Night at Sea'

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Movie actress Jayne Mansfield, who water-skied gaily out of Nassau Wednesday in a scanty swim suit, returned safely today, shivering and weeping with a story of a harrowing experience at sea and a night on a chilly beach.

She was taken to hospital for treatment of shock, exposure and coral rock cuts.

The actress, her weight-lifting husband, Mickey Hargitay, and a Florida public relations man friend were "found safe" this morning on a beach at Rose Island after a search touched off when they failed to return Wednesday night from the water-ski trip.

"Don't be upset, honey, sweetheart, it's all right," Hargitay said to Jayne as he led her to a car for the trip to the hospital.

"It was the sharks; that was the worst," said Jayne, who is reported to have an almost uncontrollable fear of sharks.

The Nassau Yacht Club said sharks have not been reported in those waters for many years.

Hargitay was taken to hospital for treatment of a cut leg. He was released after treatment.

Hotel publicist Jack Drury of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the third member of the party, was uninjured.

Miss Mansfield lay in a deck chair swathed in blankets as the group returned to Nassau aboard the yacht that picked them off the beach of the isolated island after a plane spotted them.

Hargitay told the story of their experiences after they set off on the water-ski trip. Jayne and Mickey were on skis and Drury piloted the 17-foot, white-hulled outboard boat they had rented. They continued until they got about one and one-half miles from Rose Island, six miles from Nassau.

MACFARLANE Change BCE Takeover Legislation

By AB KENT

Premier Bennett was challenged Wednesday to rewrite legislation that enabled B.C. Electric expropriation without the right of appeal negotiation or arbitration.

In a speech in the legislature that dealt for nearly an hour on the takeover and the legal question of right, Oak Bay Liberal M.L.A. Allan Macfarlane called for amendment to the act of last Aug. 1, providing for negotiation of the price put on B.C. Electric assets, and a court decision if no agreement is reached.

"If the government is not prepared to introduce such legislation, then the Liberals in the House serve notice now that they will do so themselves," Mr. Macfarlane said.

HECKLERS BUSY

He was subjected to considerable heckling from the government benches throughout his speech in which he cited many precedents for what he advocates, and read excerpts from national and international publications critical of the legislation.

Mr. Macfarlane, a lawyer, said "it is our responsibility to look at the thing and do something about it."

"You voted for it." Did you make a mistake? Social Credit members called.

The Oak Bay member admitted his responsibility with the rest of the House which unanimously adopted the takeover law.

"I made this mistake—I put my trust in the premier to do the right thing and he has failed to do it," Mr. Macfarlane said.

"He demanded and got the trust of this House. He stands today in breach of trust because his government has been irresponsible in its action in this matter following the August session," the member said.

He noted at this point the premier's absence from the chamber.

"The real problem here is the damage which has been done to British Columbia's position throughout the investment."

He Likes Cats, But!

CHICAGO (AP)—Quentin Lapash, 39, complained to police Wednesday night that 40 spaghetti-eating cats kept by his wife, Red Feather, are making his life miserable.

A policeman who went to the five-room Lapash apartment said he lost count because the cats jumped around too much, and, besides they all looked grey.

Lapash said his wife, a 42-year-old Blackfoot Indian whose name, indeed, is Red Feather, has a degree in animal husbandry from Purdue University.

The cats' feed bill was extremely high, Lapash said, although they recently were put on reduced rations of spaghetti.

"I like cats," Lapash, a factory worker, told policemen. "But I'm tired of living with 40 of them." Police took no immediate action.

HELPED by husband Mickey Hargitay after rescue early today, actress Jayne Mansfield was taken to hospital in Nassau, Bahamas, for treatment of exposure. They spent night on coral rock after their speedboat overturned on a water-skiing trip. (AP Wire-photo).

New Merger Offer

LONDON (AP)—Imperial Chemical Industries today made a new offer to Courtaulds, its giant textile rival.

NASSAU, Bahamas—Jayne Mansfield was brought back alive this morning, sobbing and bedraggled from her night out on a romantic Bahamian island just in time to meet noon editions of North American newspapers.

It was like a scene from a bad movie when Miss Mansfield who had been listed missing for 18 hours was handed off a rescue yacht in Nassau yacht basin by her solicitous husband Mickey Hargitay.

About 30 U.S. newsmen and photographers, who had hastened to the scene when the Hargitay boat was found upturned and adrift at midnight, jostled for position in the jetty and leaped into the stern of the boat where Miss Mansfield was seated in a deck chair.

One newsreel photographer threatened to "knock tourists into the water" if they got between his camera and the famous movie couple.

Miss Mansfield was wrapped in a blanket and wore a blue cashmere sweater. She was without makeup. Her face appeared puffed and her platinum hair stringy.

However, she managed a wan smile and a wave for crowds clustered around the private car which drove her to a local clinic for examination.

"A perfect corpse," one beach-boy commented.

Dief Will Seek BNA Act Change

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today put a sudden brake on early election talk by saying he hopes to introduce at this parliamentary session the preliminary document necessary for a constitutional change.

This document would be an address to the Queen asking the British Parliament to amend the British North America Act to enable the Canadian government to put into effect its planned contributory pension program.

The proposed address to the Queen requires consent of all the provinces.

Mr. Diefenbaker said two or three of the provinces have taken the position that they require more information before they can give their consent. He did not name these provinces, but said he hopes they will change their minds and that the constitutional amendment will not be held up.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that up until a few months ago the government had hoped that it would be possible for Ottawa and the provinces to reach agreement on a method for Canada itself to amend the constitution.

This could not now be achieved, he said.

U.K. Soccer Team May Play Here

Possibility of an English League soccer team playing in Victoria this summer was strongly hinted today by Dave Fryatt of the B.C. Soccer Commission.

The B.C. soccer body earlier announced that a game between Eintracht of Germany and England's Sheffield United has definitely been set for Vancouver early in June.

Fryatt said it also is hoped that B.C. all-star sides will play games with both clubs.

In that event, he said, one could be played in Victoria. "We'd certainly give it serious consideration if an application (by Victoria) was filed."

West Bids To Halt Arms Race

(Times News Services)

President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Macmillan today proposed elevating the forthcoming disarmament conference in Geneva to the foreign minister level in a 'supreme effort' to halt the nuclear arms race.

The proposal was addressed to Soviet Premier Khrushchev. It also was announced by the British and U.S. governments that British-held Christmas Island in the central Pacific was being made available to the United States for nuclear testing.

Macmillan also told Parliament that the United States has agreed to provide suitable facilities in Nevada for the underground testing of one particular British nuclear device within the next few weeks.

A joint statement issued in Washington and in London said recent massive Soviet atmospheric tests "would justify the West" in resuming nuclear testing "for military reasons."

STRONG HINT
While this did not represent a final decision by the president to start atmospheric tests again, he strongly indicated at his news conference Wednesday that this will be his ultimate decision.

The announcement clearly reflected Anglo-American hopes for reviving the stalled nuclear test ban negotiations. The Eighteen-Nation Disarmament Committee is scheduled to begin meetings March 14 at Geneva.

The Anglo-American statement urged that Khrushchev join Kennedy and Macmillan in

Power Report Withheld By Socreds—Harding

By FRANK BUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The Opposition's chief power spokesman Wednesday whipped both Liberal and Social Credit policies and charged the government was withholding information vital to the destiny of the province.

Randolph Harding (NDP-CCF Kaslo-Slocan) said the government has based its policy on engineering reports which nobody else had been allowed to see.

Main one is the Crippen-Wright report of 1958.

"If you have information to change my stand on power I won't hesitate one second," said Mr. Harding.

"We in the Opposition need this information. We need it to clarify or modify our power policy. We're Canadians too."

Just as determined to make any sacrifice in the best interests of those who have put this faith in us."

LIBERALS FLEAYED

Mr. Harding in an hour-long speech to the legislature also:

- Fleayed the Liberals for changing their power policy;
- Called it "A kangaroo policy with little Raymond (leader Ray Perrault) in the pouch peeping out to see where the Socreds are jumping";
- Said the present Social Credit two-river plan would push B.C.'s contingent liability debt to $3,000,000,000 by the end of the 1960s;
- Drew an admission from Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston that B.C. has no plans to export made-in-B.C. power at present.

Mr. Williston said he would let Mr. Harding read the Crippen-Wright report, but he couldn't make it public.

"I don't want that privilege and then have to remain silent," replied the NDP-CCF.

"We can't give it out because of its position in negotiating downstream benefits," said Mr. Williston.

Mr. Harding said the NDP-CCF power policy was:

All-public power under one authority;

Development of the Columbia River first, with Mica Creek dam the key, but elimination of the Arrow Lakes dam;

No export of power except for surpluses on an interruptible basis.

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

FEBRUARY 8

At 6.45 a.m. today, the trap was sprung from beneath the feet of condemned murderer "Charley," a Cowichan Indian found guilty of killing an RN stoker named Thomas Holmes. He was hung in front of the police barracks as about 300 interested spectators looked on. It was reported he was in good spirits until seconds before the fatal signal was given, at which time he appeared to be in a state of considerable trepidation.

"Charley's" official executioner was a convict, who receives a full pardon and $50 for his work.

Two sailors from the HBC ship Princess Royal were arrested last night, one for being drunk, the other for attacking the first officer.

The trim, speedy schooner, the Pretty Cynthia, was launched to engage in the coastwise trade.

assuming "a direct and personal interest in these negotiations."

Diplomatic sources said in London that the U.S.-British proposal was made Wednesday in Moscow by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and British Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts. The suggestion was given to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at a 15-minute meeting in the Kremlin, the sources said.

They said Gromyko "took notice" of the proposal, but gave no immediate reply.

The Anglo-American proposal called for the March 11 meeting to be initiated at the foreign minister level. It said the foreign ministers also should "be prepared to return as personal participants in the negotiations at appropriate stages as progress is made."

"The statement said the two governments, although preparing for a test resumption 'in various places,' also were 'deeply concerned for the future of mankind if a halt not be called to the nuclear arms race.'"

"The two governments are, therefore, determined to make a new effort to move away from this sterile contest," it said. This was a reference to the continuing inability of Russia and the West to reach agreement on a nuclear test ban with what the West considers adequate inspection and control systems.

Kennedy at his news conference injected a new factor almost certain to be rejected by Russia. He said an inspection system would have to guard against secret preparations for testing in addition to detecting actual experiments.

Food for Starving

GEIHO-KU, CHU, Japan (UPI)—An American Marine Corps helicopter made four landings in this snowbound Japanese village today, and unloaded two and one-half tons of food for its hungry citizens—the first delivery of food in 40 days.

Prison Farm Opened

MONTREAL (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton today officially opened the farm camp at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary here, the first of a series of prison farm camps planned across Canada.

Jobless Fund Loan

OTTAWA (CP)—A government loan of $25,000,000 for the dwindling Unemployment Insurance Fund in the 1962-63 fiscal year starting April 1 was announced by the government today.

U.S. EXPANDS VIET NAM AID

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today created a new command headed by a general to conduct an expanded U.S. effort to help South Viet Nam beat off the Communist threat.

A U.S. defence department spokesman said the move stresses that "we intend to win" the struggle.

The new command will direct the activities of U.S. aircraft and other units which have been flowing into South Viet Nam over the last few months.

The Pentagon spokesman stressed that "we are not in combat." He said U.S. efforts are limited to supporting and strengthening the pro-Western South Vietnamese with additional equipment, training and advice.

President Kennedy nominated Gen. Paul D. Harkins, now deputy army commander in the Pacific, to head the new command.

The new command will provide a framework for direction of any U.S. combat forces if a decision ultimately is made to use them in South Viet Nam.

The new organization will be superimposed over the existing military advisory group headed by Lt. Gen. Lionel C. McGarr.
